Working To Keep Wheels Turning

Soviets Rebuff Unity Proposal

GENEVA (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov rebuffed Friday night a new Western proposal to begin reunification of Germany by nationwide elections next September, he will fly to Moscow today—possibly to receive new instructions.

The 65-year-old diplomat's disclosure he will make a trip to the Soviet capital during a three-day recess of the Geneva conference stirred immediate speculation he may come back with revised ideas on the deadlocked German problem.

He turned down the West's newest German unification plan at Friday's Big Four session mainly on the ground it made no provision for European security. He promised he would "naturally study it carefully" and comment on it again next Tuesday.

Western diplomatic sources said, however, that Molotov has appeared to be under rigid orders from Moscow, which allowed him no room for manoeuvre in rejecting German unification. With 70,000,000 divided Germans certain to blame bitterly the cold war side which denies their national aspirations, Molotov has been on a tough spot at Geneva.

Molotov repeated Friday his demand that the Communist East German government and the West German government be called in to discuss the reunification problem with the Big Four foreign ministers.

Working from early yesterday morning, as soon as Arbutus creek's flood was diverted back to a culvert below road level, public works crews raced to repair major break in Malahat highway. By 8 p.m. last night single-lane traffic was possible. But workmen stood guard in case of further wash-outs.

Herculean Efforts

Island Arteries Back in Business As Damage Mounts

Vancouver Island traffic approached normal yesterday as repair crews worked around the clock to restore highways, rail lines and power facilities washed out during the torrential rainstorms Wednesday and Thursday.

A 75-foot-long swath in the Malahat highway at Arbutus creek which washed down the embankment Thursday was filled temporarily and single-lane traffic, guided by flares, started to move over the section at 7.30 last night.

E & N passenger service will resume today with a return trip as far as Duncan and possibly right through to Courtenay. First train from Victoria, the Dayliner, is scheduled to leave here at 11.30 a.m. today.

A CNR work train is repairing washouts on its freight line to Youbou. First freight since the flooding is expected to leave here Monday.

B.C. Electric officials said last night that there would be no need for a power cutback to more than 43,000 subscribers while a 750-foot section of flume, washed out by the flood, is repaired at Jordan river.

Meanwhile hundreds of residents in hard-hit Island points are shovelling mud and silt from their homes and drying out possessions after the record-breaking rainstorm which caused them and utility companies close to $3,000,000 damage.

Crews from the highways department's Langford station worked around the clock to fill the gap to make a temporary roadway to carry traffic until permanent repairs are made.

WATCH BEING KEPT
Workmen installed flares on the narrow shoulders of the new road and a watch is being maintained to see that the fill doesn't wash away.

Jordan River hydro plant, key power installation of the B.C. Electric chain serving Greater Victoria, will operate at about 20 per cent of normal capacity for another two weeks.

The Brentwood steam plant and the Goldstream hydro plant are both running at full capacity, B.C. officials say, and they are purchasing a substantial block of power from the B.C. Power Commission during the repair period.

Escapes with Bogus Fortune

Convict Printer Forges Bright Future—in Vain

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP)—Washington state penitentiary guards yesterday probably interrupted a young man's plans for a bright future when they recaptured Gene Kensler who had escaped through a tunnel under the prison wall.

Under the bridge from which Kensler and his friend's were flushed sheriff's deputies found more than $10,000 in bogus state checks, identification cards to help cash them, and a glowing letter of recommendation for employment. All of the literature had been manufactured in the prison print shop where Kensler was employed as a compositor.

The letter of recommendation expressed "profound regret" at the resignation, effective Oct. 31, of compositor "Sean Carmody" from the state department of printing.

The letter described Carmody as "trustworthy, dependable, ambitious and a hard worker." His former "employers" said he was "an excellent family man, built his own modest home, was prompt in his financial obligations and landscaped one of the nicest floral gardens in the neighborhood."

Kensler is serving a 15-year term for grand larceny. He escaped from the prison once before, in 1952, and travelled a trail of bad checks all the way across the United States. He still is wanted on bad check charges in several states.

The checks, which added up to $10,151.77, were signed by "D. W. Halvorson, superintendent of the state department of printing." Washington has no department of printing, but there is a Dave Halvorson employed by the state department of institutions. Halvorson's job is to keep the personnel records for penitentiary employees and inmates, so the bogus checks carried a name the convicts knew.

Most of the cards which had been printed in the prison shop identified "Charles Sherman," to whom most of the checks were payable. The identification included a driver's licence, draft card, birth registration (complete with state seal), and cards from two credit associations.

Deputy sheriffs agreed that the driver's licence "sure looks authentic" and probably would have fooled them.

Four Jump Oakalla Wall

Police Stalk Desperadoes Through Burnaby Swamp

Two Still Loose;
Armed, Dangerous

VANCOUVER (BUP)—A posse of more than 100 heavily-armed policemen swarmed through 500 acres of forested swampland and a cemetery in suburban Burnaby last night in a search for two gun-toting prison fugitives.

The pair—bank robbers John Wasylenchuk and Robert Lewis—fled with two other men from Oakalla prison farm at about 2 p.m. The other fugitives, Carl LaViolette and Harold Coulter, were recaptured less than half an hour after the break.

LIFE SENTENCE
Wasylenchuk, one of the most dangerous criminals ever to operate on the west coast, was awaiting transfer to the British Columbia penitentiary at New Westminster to serve a life sentence in connection with an abortive $28,000 robbery of a Royal Bank of Canada branch in Burnaby last Jan. 13. Lewis also was awaiting transfer to serve 10 years for the $3,000 robbery of a South Vancouver Royal Bank branch April 21.

LaViolette and Coulter were being held in connection with the $9,000 robbery of a Bank of Nova Scotia branch here Aug. 31.

Warden Hugh Christie said he expected the posse of policemen, prison guards and police dogs to apprehend the fugitives before the night was out.

The escape—engineered by overpowering the guards and leaping over the prison exercise yard—occurred shortly before a $7,500 bank hold-up was pulled off in Vancouver. However, police said they did not think there was any connection. Christie recounted how the men escaped.

Involved in the hunt were Royal Canadian Mounted Police, prison guards and Vancouver and New Westminster city police. One inspector of the Vancouver city police said the police were armed with "all riot gear," including tear gas and sub-machine guns.

Warden Christie, who fired the only shot exchanged in the search as a warning move, said Wasylenchuk and Lewis somehow equipped themselves with pistols, but it was not known where they got them.

Police said they believed that Wasylenchuk was the "brains" behind the escape plot.

Wasylenchuk, a 31-year-old desperado who has been in and out of prison all his life, had his appeal against his life sentence and 21 lashes turned down last week by the British Columbia Court of Appeal. He would have been transferred to the penitentiary in a few more days.

'Flea Power'

CBC Rule Bans TV Outlet Here

BY ROY PARRETT
A Victoria television station has been smothered before birth by a new ruling of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation which, in effect, limits any local TV outlet to flea-power operation.

The regulation followed the filing of an application for a television licence for Victoria by an operating radio station here. The application was returned on the grounds that it did not meet the CBC's limitations for single-service coverage.

Present plans of Victoria broadcasters call for TV transmitters operating at normal power which would include Vancouver and the built-up part of the mainland in service areas.

The new regulation would limit the coverage of any Victoria television station strictly to the local area—from Sidney to the Malahat. Because of this, a Victoria TV station would have power of about 2,000 watts, instead of the usual 100,000.

Radio and television men here were thunderstruck by the ruling which they claim is designed to maintain the CBC's absolute monopoly in the TV field.

"It is particularly aimed at Victoria because the restriction was issued by the department of transport on Oct. 12, less than a week after an application was made for a station here," one official in the industry said.

FINANCIAL FAILURE
Many experts believe that a television station serving only the local area would be a financial failure, because of the high cost of programming.

Officials of CKDA and CJVI, although disturbed by the new development, declined immediate comment. Both radio stations had planned to file applications for a permit for a city TV outlet. These plans now will have to be revised.

Although the CBC board of governors is due to meet soon, new city briefs are not expected to be presented until the New Year, because of the ruling.

WASHINGTON (UP)—The States has received information that Communist technicians have arrived in Egypt in connection with the arms deliveries. He said it also is known that Communist weapons were delivered to Egypt recently in several ships.

The Reds are reported delivering MIG-15 jet fighters, IL-28 medium jet bombers and other modern weapons to Egypt, possibly including submarines. Some of the weapons are believed coming from Communist Czechoslovakia.

Department spokesman Lincoln White was asked at a news conference to comment specifically on an earlier United Press dispatch which said American officials blamed Russia for the new outbreak of fighting and any Middle Eastern war it might spawn.

"I think the chronology of events there shows a close relationship between the present situation and what it was before this offer was made," he replied.

All Presidents Are Worriers

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—A survey of presidents of business shows they worry about losing their time, about procrastination, about improving themselves and they all want to earn twice as much as they are getting.

The Harvard Business Review found that 950 members of the Young Presidents' Organization—a club of younger top executives in the United States, five years ago.

Lyle M. Spencer, himself a president and a former national vice-president of the Young-under 40—Presidents' Organization, finds that presidents procrastinate with tough human problems and make mistakes, and they worry about that; in fact, they have an "almost masochistic capacity for self-criticism."

The average president in the organization had an income of about $10,000 last year, got a $1,500 raise, saved away $5,000 in savings, feels he'd like to earn twice as much as he makes, is a strong family man, works about 53 hours a week in the office and may lug home some work in his brief case for the evening.

Labor Still Powerful

Leonardi Could Fall Ex-Dictator Believes

CARACAS, Venezuela (UP)—Juan D. Peron said Friday the Argentine Confederation of Labor (CGT), mainstay of his fallen regime, "is capable of overthrowing" provisional president Eduardo Lonardi.

"They are 6,000,000 men able to act legally as well as illegally," Peron said when he arrived here on his way from Paraguay to Nicaragua. He said the CGT held the balance of power in Argentina.

Shipping Held Up

Rain and wind storms are playing havoc with shipping schedules, King Brothers agency reported yesterday.

Ss. Jakara was delayed several hours before leaving Victoria for Port Alberni yesterday. As a result, Ss. Merchant Duke was unable to begin loading lumber until today, and will be a day or two late in departing.

Ss. Lakemba will not reach Cowichan bay from Vancouver until Tuesday, three days late, because washouts on the CNR line have delayed lumber shipments from the Interior.

Garden Notes

Raspberries Top Bush Fruit

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FBHS
When I am not in the mood for a bacon-and-egg breakfast, there isn't anything I relish more to start off the day than a big bowl of home-preserved raspberries and a plate of hot, buttered, brown bread toast, along with a good cup of coffee.

You can keep your citrus fruits—I'll take raspberries, for their slightly acid flavor and their wealth of vitamins and minerals makes them, for my money, just about the perfect breakfast fruit. If you don't have any raspberry preserves in your fruit cupboard, try a tin of canned raspberries from the grocer for your breakfast tomorrow, and see if you don't agree with me.

MOST USEFUL

Raspberries are probably the most useful of all the bush fruits for the home garden. For one thing, they have such a beautifully long fruiting season, and everybody loves them—fresh, preserved, frozen, or in jam.

Even the leaves are useful. You can make a queer kind of tea by infusing raspberry leaves—it is a very old remedy for colds and to tone up the blood, and medical research has substantiated the claims of the ancient herbalists in this respect. Also, during the tobacco shortage of the Second World War, British gardeners made a passable smoke out of cured raspberry leaves.

Fortunately for the home gardener, the raspberry cane is a tolerant creature, and not the least bit fussy over its soil. As long as you can provide plenty of water, with a little fertilizer in it occasionally, and a good thick mulch over the roots to protect the shallow rooting system from sun-baking, you can grow good raspberries.

ENOUGH FOR FAMILY
Under home garden conditions, you can get a pound of fruit from every foot of raspberry row, so that 40 or 50 feet of row will provide enough to supply a family of four with enough fruit for eating fresh or canning. Thirty canes spaced 18 inches apart will do the trick, and if you have to put them into two rows, keep the rows a good six feet apart.

For varieties, I don't think you can do better than to plant Washington, a vastly improved grandson of the old reliable Lloyd-George. Good canes will cost you about a dime each.

Cumberland Blackcap is another good one, and while some people don't like the look of a purple raspberry, the flavor is excellent.

In planting, set the roots into the soil the same depth as they were in the nursery, as you can tell from the soil marks on the canes. It is a good idea to mix some damp peat moss and bone meal into the soil used for filling in, and water with a touch of Liqui-Life or Instant Vigoro in it will settle the soil around the roots and get the plants away to a good start.

After planting, don't forget to cut the cane back until there is only a little six-inch stub sticking up.

'Earnscliffe' Story Recorded in Booklet

OTTAWA (CP)—The centenary of a stately grey stone mansion of a stately grey stone mansion here, one of this country's major historic landmarks, has been marked by the British government, its present owner.

The house is Earnscliffe, home of Sir John A. Macdonald—Canada's first prime minister—from 1883 until his death in 1891. Since 1930 it has been the residence of a succession of six United Kingdom high commissioners.

But many others have lived in the house.

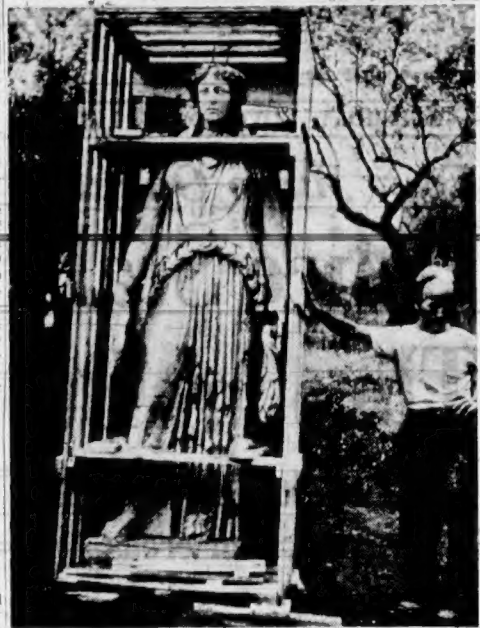

A tenant-by-tenant story of Earnscliffe now has been published by the commonwealth relations office in London, the work of three years' research by Norman Reddaway, secretary to the present high commissioner, Sir Archibald Nye.

Earnscliffe, on a bluff overlooking the Ottawa river about half a mile downstream from Parliament hill, has been closely connected with the history of Ottawa and Canada since it was built in 1855 or 1856. That history has been woven into the story of the house in a booklet available free on request.

It is the concluding part of Mr. Reddaway's research. Earlier this year he presented an album of Earnscliffe's pictorial history to the parliamentary library.

The builder and first owner was John MacKinnon, Scots banker who came to Bytown, as Ottawa was first known, and married the daughter of John McKay, the contractor who became wealthy building the Rideau canal in the 1820s. MacKinnon became a sort of junior partner to his father-in-law.

Beauty from 'Hadrian's Hideaway'

One of the beautiful creations of Greek sculpture sees the light of day after 18 centuries, unearthed by archaeologists in the ruins of Roman Emperor Hadrian's villa, 20 miles from Rome. The villa, one of the most sumptuous ever built, had heated swimming pools, heated sand for jollying, beautiful carvings and hundreds of slaves to administer to Hadrian and his guests. Archaeologists dubbed it "Hadrian's Hideaway" and are amazed at the luxury enjoyed by the emperor.—(Central Press Canadian)

Mission Extension

Assembly Fills High Synod Post

An important new office of the synod of British Columbia of the Presbyterian Church in Canada was filled at the 64th annual meeting, which concluded in Vancouver yesterday. Rev. William McBride, recently from Toronto, was inducted as superintendent of a new program of small mission congregations and extension work. Newly-opened churches at Prince George and Kitimat will be included under his jurisdiction.

Nine of the 100 delegates to the synod were from Greater Victoria, and were led by Very Rev. J. L. W. McLean of St. Andrew's.

A recent survey showed that 80 per cent of the parents of Sunday school children had no interest in participating in a Sunday school parent-teacher group, said Rev. Robert Carter of Toronto, assistant to the general secretary.

He discussed a new Sunday school curriculum designed to relate lessons to a pupil's daily life and "to discover new ways of activating the parents."

Mr. Justice A. M. Manson, a lay delegate, reported that almost all of the $100,000 needed to construct a residence on the UBC campus for Presbyterian theological students has been raised and building may start "before long."

Guild Plans Light Fare Next Week

Take a dissatisfied wife, a shy husband and a marriage-mending bachelor, mix well, and the result is "Two Dozen Red Roses," a comedy which Victoria Theatre Guild will present in Langham Court theatre tonight and each night next week.

Set in modern times in Italy, the plot has the woman about to leave her uninteresting home when the mysterious roses arrive, and she promptly falls in love with her secret admirer.

Identity of the admirer and solution of the marriage problem are disclosed by a cast including Betty Knight, Jim Dolmage, Charles Ozard, Donna Hoffer and Ron Clydesdale. Director is Tommy Mayne.

Ticket sales are at Kent's Ltd. or at the door.

People Are Dying Before Their Time

WASHINGTON (UP)—People who die these days do so prematurely.

The time is coming when human beings will live much longer on the average than they do now—if they manage to avoid death by accident, natural violence, or war.

Just scores of some of the views of a number of scientists who have expressed themselves on the subject of life expectancy at recent medical meetings.

The average person can now expect to live to around 69, or approximately the biblical span of three score years and 10. American life expectancy is 20 years greater than it was in 1900.

It could be extended another 10 years just by applying "all the medical knowledge we now have," according to a paper read in Baltimore last week by Frederick C. Swartz of Lansing, Mich.

At another meeting in Troy,

N.Y., Dr. Maurice L. Tainter of Rensselaer, N.Y., said that a life expectancy of 100 years will become a possibility by the end of this century.

In Kansas City, Mo., Dr. Robert A. Davison of Memphis, Tenn., predicted a time when 115 or 120. He proclaimed a potential life expectancy of 140.

By and large such forecasts assume continued advances in treatment of disease, more healthful eating practices, and better care generally of the body and mind.

Some researchers hold that aging itself is a disease for which a cure may be found. Dr. Johan Bjorksten of the Bjorksten Research Foundation, Madison, Wis., believes the body possesses a mechanism which resists age for a while. He contends it is possible that agents may some day be found which will counteract molecular aging.

Airman Lost After Crash

EDMONTON (CP)—The pilot of a CF-100 jet fighter which crashed in northern Alberta Thursday night has been found alive but the navigator is missing, the RCAF reported Friday.

The all-weather fighter crashed while on a routine training flight from the RCAF base at Cold Lake, Alta., which is about 200 miles northeast of Edmonton. The wreckage was sighted Friday about 75 miles northeast of the base.

FO W. L. Donald, 19, of Winnipeg, the pilot of the aircraft, has been found. The air force sent a four-man rescue team into the area to search for PO R. E. Perrie, 36, of Ottawa, the navigator.

Before the crash, the pilot sent a radio message saying he was having difficulty flying the aircraft. He apparently bailed out when the big jet became unmanageable.

Federal Guarantee Needed

Crown Company To Build Pipeline Through Ontario

OTTAWA (CP)—Ontario and the federal government have agreed to join in a crown company for joint construction of a natural gas pipeline across northern Ontario providing there are assurances that the whole trans-Canada line will be completed.

Ontario provincial treasurer Dana Porter made the announcement Friday night following a day of talks with Trade Minister Howe. But, he said, Ontario's agreement stipulates that before the province "puts up any money" there will have to be a federal guarantee that the whole all-Canada line will be built from the western gas fields to the east.

Jets Enforcing China Blockade

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Nationalist China is using jet fighters as a deterrent to China coast skippers running to Communist Chinese ports from this British colony.

These skippers, who have been getting double pay to match with the Chinese Nationalist navy, believe that the Nationalists are using aircraft instead of warships to avoid clashes with the British navy.

Chiang Kai-shek has ordered a "closure" of the coast to stop the Communists getting strategic supplies. Such a "closure" is considered by Hong Kong businessmen as unnecessary in view of the United Nations embargo which bans the export of war materials, or anything even distantly resembling strategic materials, to Communist China.

Vessels of British and other nationality sailing from Hong Kong for the "danger ports" of Swatow, Amoy and Foochow (ships to Shanghai, Tientsin and Tsingtao, in North China, are usually left alone) carry what is usually described as "general cargo."

This includes such items as textiles, fertilizer and pharmaceuticals. The ships usually come away with Chinese foodstuffs, bound either for another Chinese port, or for over-populated Hong Kong.

Most skippers, while cursing the Nationalists and quietly counting their big bank balances, look on their adventures as dangerous but lucrative enough to be continued. Tempers flare up, however, when occasionally the latest victim of a Nationalist naval or air attack limps into port, as often as not with wounded or dead members of the crew aboard.

Alleged Slayer Had Key To Gun Locker—Police

BRANDON (CP)—A Brandon policeman described Friday how he found a bag containing guns and other weapons in a railway station locker. He said he opened the locker with the key found to him by one of three Quebec youths charged with the slaying of a Roman Catholic priest.

Constable Frank Britton told a court of Quebec's bench jury during the trial of the youths that he found the accused in the CFR station within five hours of the finding of the body of Rev. Alfred Quirion of St. Edouard, Alta., on the highway just east of here, last Jan. 9.

Britton said he questioned 18-year-old Guy Ferragne, of Rivieres des Prairies, Que., for a few minutes, then used his police car radio to call for assistance. Two RCMP officers arrived immediately.

Ferragne was accompanied by Claude Paquin and Gerard de Tonnancourt, both 18, of Montreal.

CONTAINED WEAPONS
Britton said the mounted police opened the locker with a key which Ferragne took from his shoe. Inside was a canvas bag containing a semi-automatic pistol with a loaded clip in its handle, a race starting pistol and a Smith and Wesson .32-calibre revolver.

The revolver contained three spent cartridges and three live

Customer Becomes Competitor

PUSH a good customer too hard in the matter of prices and he will begin to look elsewhere. That is a business truth which Canada's pulp and paper industry may soon learn the hard way if it goes on boosting prices charged to the export market. At present U.S. purchasers of newsprint are very largely dependent on imports for Canada, but the Dominion's favored position may not continue. There are portents of competition from an unexpected direction; and if one competitor meets with success in the U.S. market there are likely to be others.

The industry recently raised its prices to U.S. importers; but even before the increase was announced a congressional mission had proceeded to New Zealand to look over the prospects there. In the opinion of this mission New Zealand newsprint will sell well in the U.S. and world markets, and its new pulp industry is capable of "enormous" expansion. Production, which is just about to begin, will make New Zealand self-sustaining and leave a substantial surplus for export. Large contracts already have been signed for the sale of newsprint to Australia.

Up to now New Zealand has had to import every ounce of newsprint it uses, paying mainly in scarce dollars. So also has Australia. The new pulp and paper industry is the fruit of a long-sighted experiment, the success of which has exceeded the most optimistic expectations. New Zealand's former dependence on overseas sources of supply was due to the fact that it had no native woods suitable for making pulp. Twenty-five years ago or thereabouts a project was formed, with a good deal of misgiving, to forest a treeless desert with imported varieties of pine. To the astonishment of many the new forest not only grew at a phenomenal rate, but in next to no time the project was producing enough merchantable timber to enable New Zealand to curtail imports of building lumber; and now it is in a position to compete in the world market for newsprint.

It may be a long time before New Zealand competition makes much of a dent in Canada's enormous exports of newsprint; but just the same this could be the writing on the wall. The southern dominion's demonstration that a desert can be turned into a richly profitable forest may give others the same idea. And since the high prices charged by the Canadian newsprint industry have become a national issue in the United States, any newcomers to the field are likely to find a receptive, even an eager, market.

The Role of the Teacher

THE oldest battle in the world is that of education against ignorance, wherein education stands for the leading out of all that is best in the individual. Primary since earliest times, the role of the teacher is surely one of the most important of all human callings. Of late those engaged in the profession have had to stand for a deal of uninformed and none too charitable criticism from those who have confused the functions of others with those of the teacher. Teachers do not create the syllabus, they receive it from some department of education. They do not make bad boys; they inherit them from the homes in which they have grown up. Least of all are they responsible for all of the economic or sociological maladjustments of the times.

For the 580 teachers of the Greater Victoria area now gathered here there must have been something more important than a job and its emoluments uppermost when they dedicated a good part of their lives to one of the most onerous and exacting of all callings: the opening of the gates to growing minds. In every land which believes in the dignity of the individual that is, and must remain, one of the chief essentials. No teacher's work begins with the classroom nor ends with the closing bell. Each day, every day of the term he, or she, must stand forth as an example; and it is one which will be followed. Long after the school books have been closed, and young people have fared forth into the world, the example will go with them.

If the modern age could say as much for all of its homes as it justly can for most of its classrooms, there would be fewer wild throws at the teaching profession and a good deal more pertinent analysis of the actual task to be done. Every child has a right to guidance on the paths of self-discovery and self-control; two elements from which spring the lifelong process of self-education. Where that basic work is done understandingly and well fruitful lives result. Where it is skimmed or poorly rendered irreparable harm follows for the individual.

One would like to say to the delegates of the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association that their presence here for the consideration of their own problems is an encouraging sign. There is no greater trust than that of the teaching profession. If from our schools we expect the best, into them we must put our best endeavors. All society has a part in that.

Nature on the Rampage

THIS is the season for gales but the rain-drenched storm from which the Island and Lower Mainland is recovering is a reminder of the harm that a single upset of nature can do. Even though a record rainfall marked a 24-hour period, Victoria got off lightly with little damage done. Elsewhere communities were not so fortunate; flooded homes were common and washouts disrupted power and highway communications to a considerable degree. The Alberni was hard hit, and inundations in the North Vancouver area reached disaster proportions, necessitating the employment of military and civil defence forces in efforts of rehabilitation.

Fortunately no loss of life has been reported, although once more this area is indebted to the prompt and generous aid of the U.S. Coast Guard. Only their swift and efficient helicopter action saved the families marooned at Port Renfrew; and in the absence of a similar rescue agency at home it is fortunate that such co-operation is so readily forthcoming. The damage to many homes on the Island and the Lower Mainland will be a serious matter for the people concerned, with no recourse to compensation. Community efforts will be called for to aid in the restoration steps that will have to be taken.

Work crews are busy righting the situation where raging waters have cut rail and road communications. Given easier weather the Malahat breach will soon be repaired, and meanwhile the Mill Bay ferry has extended its service to keep serious interruptions to the flow of Island Highway traffic to a minimum, but the Arbutus Creek washout does emphasize how dependent Victoria and other southern communities are on the steady maintenance of this single up-island roadway. It may also cause the culvert drainage to be reviewed and strengthened all along the route. The hope now is for brightening skies that will permit recovery work to continue unabated in all areas where the storm did damage.

Interpreting the News

'Geneva Spirit' Waning

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

DESPITE the general deterioration in the "Geneva spirit," the powers are making gestures designed to keep it alive just a little longer.

U.S. Secretary of State Foster Dulles announced the other day that Communists could now be trusted to protect the personal safety of American visitors, and that passports would no longer be marked "invalid" for the Communist sphere in Europe. Russia had previously relaxed her travel regulations slightly, but visas still are not freely forthcoming, by any means.

The Russians have been talking for a long time about better trade relations with the West, so the United States announced it was easing things up. Close scrutiny reveals, however, that it is a speeding up of business being done, rather than an actual easing. American exporters merely will be able to sell under blanket regulations what the government has been issuing individual shipment licences for already.

The latest gesture is an exchange of priests, one to look after the spiritual needs of Russians in the United States and one to do the same for Americans in Moscow. The negotiations for this piece of business were more complicated than those which usually attend an exchange of ambassadors.

These gestures of little meanings are part of a facade behind which the cold war continues unabated.

Russia and the Western powers are steering a steady course toward a conflict over the Middle East which threatens to tear down the facade completely.

It might have been possible to keep up the pretense for a while despite the complete failure of agreement on Germany. Neither side had expected such a knotty question to be settled quickly. Negotiations at least could continue in an atmosphere of polite contest.

Day by day, however, the West is hardening its attitude toward Russian manoeuvres in the Middle East. The West is going to act. Among several open courses of action are:

Guarantees of present boundaries by Britain and the United States with strong warnings that aggression by either Israel or Egypt will not be tolerated.

Similar action by the United Nations, possibly with the stationing of UN troops in the demilitarized zone to repel all violators.

Furnishing of sufficient arms to Israel to maintain a balance with Communist shipments to the Arabs—an action which might stave off immediate trouble but which would enhance the danger of any later conflict.

"I don't want to complain, but you never take me anywhere"

Natural Trait Gerald Waring

By FRANK KELLEY

IT would be a poor specimen of living creature that it did not show some fight if its usual resting place were menaced, especially where the protection of its offspring might be interfered with. This one learns from occasional encounters with animal, bird and insect life when stumbling on their private preserves by accident or intent. Such could also apply, one presumes, to denizens of the deep and varied forms of life common to shore-side areas.

One reads of fight the octopus puts up when disturbed in its underwater haunts and occasionally hears divers tell of belligerently-disposed fish of varied genus which resented the presence of the bubble-making object invading their domain under some circumstances. But our experiences have been with some woodland creatures, a bird or two of the air and some hornets. One can recall meeting up with a female black bear while on a Vancouver Island hike.

Finding it necessary to cross a windfall of some extent (not an uncommon need) while adjusting pack-sack and carbine preparatory to getting off the ground, one's ears were assisted with the sound of whimpering squeals and more audible grunts emanating from the wind-piled trees. This was followed by what might have been a smothered admonition, maybe a cuff or two and the sudden appearance of a hefty black snarling object some 50 feet away on a tree trunk, displaying glistening teeth, evidently indicating it would like to test them or its claws on any part of a bloke's anatomy.

At least that was the impression gathered at the moment. The beast looked bigger just then than it really was, no doubt; and when I recalled later what a fine camera shot it would have made, the most compelling temptation, I must admit, was to withdraw, abandon the crossing of that particular patch and seek an easier route. Yes, there was a carbine; but using it on a bear challenging the right-of-way was never intended as a hasty act. So, the lady bear being willing to get by with a show of bluff, it was up to me to make myself scarce, appreciating her concern for the cub. It also seemed to be the most reasonable course to follow, just then.

Most dramatic experience with a wild thing was on the height of land between Hardy and Shushartle Bays, where a blue grouse was flushed. It flew into a nearby bull pine, where it presented a good pose for a snapshot. The land there was covered with a thick growth of heather and grass. Taking off my pack and setting it on the grass, I was in the act of sighting my camera on the bird when it flew fiercely at me, knocked the camera flying and returned to the tree. Then realizing certain agitated chirps were rising from beneath the pack-sack it was shifted after a picture, which is prized very much, was snapped, when the chirping radiated away through the long grass, as mama and her flock were evidently reunited without casualties.

These incidents were recalled when one heard of a theory expressed recently by some flyers familiar with the northwestern areas of the B.C. coast. It was stated they had inferred, following failure to locate a missing plane in the area, that it might possibly have been destroyed through an attack by an eagle hurtling itself through the glass windows of the machine. Flyers, it was stated, recalled near misses, the big birds, golden and white-headed, never hesitating to hurl themselves against anything threatening the serenity of their tree-top and rock-ridge nests. It might have been the answer to that particular crash.

Reports from Abroad

VIENTIANE, Laos—Everywhere I go in Indo-China I find the French nursing their spleen against the Americans, and everywhere except where the Communists hold sway I find the Americans doing things the French should have done long ago.

What galls the French is that they are through in Indo-China, and that almost overnight the Americans with their costly programs of military, economic and technical aid have become the big white brothers of the little brown men.

For example, here in Laos, the Cinderella of the former French colonies which won its independence in 1953, the French are trying to make amends for past neglect and preserve what they can of their political and economic influence. They provide the government with military, economic and technical experts and teachers, and have promised help in irrigation, airport and school construction and road repairs.

But the Americans are operating on a grander scale. The Laotian army alone costs them $35,000,000 a year. They're importing 17,000 tons of seed and relief rice, and have big programs for road construction, agricultural aid, public health and technical training—in all costing about $15,000,000. The French can't match—or stomach—it.

In South Vietnam the Americans are spending $325,000,000 a year. Most of it—$235,000,000—is paying the whole cost of the armed forces. The U.S. also has spent more than $53,000,000 resettling refugees from North Vietnam, and its $30,000,000 for economic and technical aid last year is being increased.

Parsons in Private

By GREGORY CLARK

I OFTEN wonder what clergymen talk about when they are by themselves. Sometimes in Pullman cars or in hotels when there are clerical gatherings I have seen gentlemen of the cloth engaged in private converse, little groups of them, enjoying what must be jokes or even unseemly topics of pious discourse, to judge by their laughter.

Well, I got hold of what may be one solution. In a small town recently, there was a funeral of a local gentleman of great respectability, and everybody of any account attended. The clergyman was of the persuasion that feels called upon to declaim a eulogy over the dead departed.

Now this dear departed had been a good man, and worthy, and prosperous. But he had spent a fairly colorless life, with little to afford a good bite on, for purposes of eulogy.

The parson mounted the pulpit in the funeral parlor and proceeded with the service. Then he came to the place where the eulogy is spoken. There is always a special hush at this point.

One of the fruits of the former French policy of maintaining the dependence of French colonies in Indo-China is that there aren't enough trained natives to keep the wheels turning in industry, commerce or government. American aid seeks to rectify this by sending experts from the States and by training Vietnamese to run their own affairs.

The French are extremely suspicious of U.S. motives. I've heard various French officials accuse the U.S. of trying to destroy what influence France still has here, of trying to grab this market for U.S. manufactures, and of replacing French colonialism with the American brand.

Where it really hurts is in the pocketbook. U.S. dollars enable Vietnam to shop internationally in the markets offering the best buys. Eighty per cent of South Vietnam's imports used to come from France. Now the figure is down to 60 per cent, and all the new cars you see on Saigon's streets are American.

In North Vietnam the French have salvaged a little from the ruins, but their efforts to make a "business as usual" deal with the Communists were scuttled, they say, by U.S. pressure on Paris.

The French sold a coal mine to the Reds for a million tons of coal—a good price—but generally speaking the Communists refuse to indemnify French property owners, and trade-wise they are turning to the Communist bloc. France used to do a $10,000,000-a-year business with North Vietnam. Now the French hope to conclude barter deals totalling $2,500,000 a year.

There's a great sadness in French hearts in this part of the world. Forty thousand French dead in the war, including the equivalent of eight graduating classes from St. Cyr, the French RMC. And now the final defeat, by U.S. dollars.

His reverence launched quietly into a summary or brief biographical sketch of the departed, listing his many virtues. Finding his material a little commonplace, the parson searched about in his memory for bits and pieces of former funeral orations that had served well, and he warmed to his subject. In due course, he was dealing in superlatives, and he knew he had his audience properly spellbound.

Then he came to the end of his superlatives, and could think of no more. Now for the dramatic close. Leaning over from the pulpit, he pointed down to the casket.

"My friends," he cried, "the shell is there. But the nut is gone!"

You could tell by the slow flush that welled up from his collar that the parson realized his words. You could tell by the tiny stirring in the audience that many of them were having sudden trouble with their diaphragms.

But with a benediction, which bowed all heads, the service ended and everybody stood up and put on their coats.

It is probably things like this that parsons laugh at, when they are by themselves.

Under the Dome

By RAY BAINES
Colonist Legislative Reporter

IF politicians could foresee the effect or know the consequences of some things they say, they would still say them—but maybe more carefully.

Everybody is now having great fun speculating about Premier W. A. C. Bennett as national leader of the Social Credit party of Canada.

day prime minister. This is because of the national leader Solon Low, in trying to dispel any such idea, merely quickened the interest in it.

Mr. Low brought the subject up last week at the B.C. Social Credit League's annual convention in Vancouver. What he was trying to do was assure the delegates that the movement was united. He said no "pips-squeak" was going to split it. His "pips-squeak" was Conservative national organizer George Hees who some months ago said Premier Bennett didn't agree with Mr. Low and other federal Socialists and, in fact, wanted the leadership himself. B.C.'s premier denied the allegation at the time.

Last week Mr. Low said, in effect, that there would be a national Social Credit convention and that if the people of the movement wanted Premier Bennett as their leader he would go along with them. Naturally he would go along with them. What else could he do if he was defeated in a convention? Mr. Low was quite surprised when the press interpreted his remarks as willingness to "step down" in favor of Premier Bennett. He really didn't mean to convey the impression that he wouldn't contest Mr. Bennett's nomination for national leadership if such a thing should happen.

Premier Bennett, of course, said he had no "ambitions" to enter the federal field. But when he was asked if he would accept the national leadership if the Social Credit party wanted him, he said that he would "cross that bridge" when he came to it. In other words, he may not be ambitious to be Canada's prime minister, but if the Social Credit party should make large strides in the direction of Ottawa, and if he was nominated in a federal convention, you might be able to twist his arm.

Remember that Premier Bennett had to be talked into standing for leadership of the provincial party.

Here is what I have heard behind the scenes. If there is a national Social Credit convention, say in 1957, Mr. Low, Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta and Premier Bennett will all be asked by different factions of the national Social Credit organization to stand. If they all accept and it is put to a vote, Mr. Low would be out on the first count, leaving the two western premiers in the field. Of the two, Premier Bennett would win out because of his dynamic personality and drive.

That's what the people said. They could be wrong but my "informed sources" are willing to give you odds.

Should it come to pass that the Social Credit party did "capture" Ottawa as they seemed confident last week of doing, there are plenty of people who would rather see Premier Bennett as prime minister than Mr. Low. But as the premier says, there's plenty to do in British Columbia yet, and the climate is better.

The "on-to-Ottawa" theme dominated the Vancouver convention last week in many ways. While rank and file delegates busied themselves with matters of daylight saving time and fluoridation, the national leaders, the premier and league president Noel Murphy pointed optimistic fingers towards the Peace Tower. Mr. Low said all that was needed was an effort from Social Credit grass roots members. He said Ottawa was "there for the taking."

"About as much chance as a snowball in hell," was the opinion expressed this week by another well-known member of parliament, CCF MP Harold Winch.

But Premier Bennett has figured out this way: "There is nothing as powerful as an idea when the time is right. The time is right for Social Credit in Canada."

To listen to those 600 cheering, good-humored, confident, irrepressible Social Credit delegates in Vancouver last week, one would almost be inclined to believe him. Whether Canada's millions of voters have the idea, though, remains to be seen.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

The experts are all agreed that modern parents don't know how to raise their children. Fortunately, however, the neighbors do.

A U.S. labor leader predicts a four-day week by 1965. If the work week shrinks any more it should do away with strikes. Who would want to quit fishing long enough to picket?

"If left to himself," writes a nutrition expert, "the child will select a well-balanced diet." We hadn't realized that chocolate cookies and pop constituted a balanced diet.

Ten Thousand $1 Bills

I note in a Community Chest statement this week that "a last minute response will be necessary if we are going to ensure adequate operation of the 17 Chest agencies during the coming year."

At present it looks as though the campaign will fall $10,000 short. Anyone who has any experience with welfare agencies in this city knows that a cinch in their already tightened belts will spell real hardship in many cases.

Why not try this plan? Send out 10,000 letters with return-addressed envelopes, asking each person to send in a one-dollar bill. Many will have given before and many will be new contacts, but I think a good response could be expected to an emergency appeal which would assure the success of the campaign.

All Tried Before

In a recent weekend edition I saw quite an article about the re-opening of the Gorge waters for swimmers. The ones who are doing this are doing exactly the same as was done about 20 years ago at the same place.

During the 16 years or so I operated a boat in Victoria harbor and especially in the Gorge waters, I had many opportunities to see what was happening to the flats above the Craig flower bridge.

The sewage from the inner harbor has been settling in the Gorge for all the years that the wise men have been trying to make up their minds to open up the other end of the Gorge, so as to be able to flush it out from both ends.

Whether this would be practical now after all the years that the upper Gorge has been acting as a huge settling bowl, I do not know.

I do know that I was employed by someone (I've forgotten whom) to take a large scow through the Gorge bridge loaded deeply with clean sand, and next day a small crew of men spread this sand to a depth of about a foot all over this same beach which it is proposed to sand again. It made a beautiful clean job. The kids had a line beach that year. Three years after all this was done not a vestige of the sand could be seen, and the whole beach was covered with about two inches of dirty, smelly slime.

Since I am given to understand that the Gorge has never been opened up I fail to see how the condition of the Gorge waters can have improved over all these years. I'm sure it still smells the same.

The remedy for opening up this wonderful playground has been apparent to everyone for 50 years. As long as the tide runs up the Gorge with the force it does, and takes all the sewage with it, the upper shallows will always remain one huge settling basin, especially as the tide does not take out what it deposits there.

Believe me when I say that I am not trying to knock any one's project, least of all anything to do with the improvement of the Gorge, but the present proposal has all been tried before.

Why Not Locally?

Passing of years inevitably brings changes in our social and economic environment, some acceptable and understandable, others less acceptable, and some beyond or almost beyond rational comprehension.

One of the puzzling sort of such change thrusting itself upon my notice with increasing frequency during the past half-dozen years is that of printed matter, chiefly for commodity but some for services - advertisement purposes, which appears to have been

New Absurdity

The Social Credit politicians are past-masters at absurdities. I see that they propose to issue free hunting and fishing licenses to blind persons.

As a hunter of many years' experience I consider that a man requires good sight whilst in the woods, in order that he does not shoot something that he shouldn't, either man or beast.

The issue of fishing licenses to blind persons might result in more drowning accidents, of which we have too many already.

Little Letters

Regardless of the rights of the GPO to issue the announcement of the refusal to deliver small envelopes and cards, it should be widely broadcast that the order is postponed till Feb. 1, not Oct. 1 as first stated.

Otherwise stores may be left after Christmas with large stocks of the small cards and envelopes unsold. Merchants have to pay sales tax on invoices of what they have ordered, not just on what is sold.

I only saw about the postponement in a small paragraph in the paper. (Mrs.) ALICE COLCLOUGH, 1263 Richardson street, Victoria, B.C.

New Church To Be Built

Receipt of $64,000 in pledges means "we are going ahead with a new St. Matthias church in the spring." Rev. Canon F. E. M. Tomalin said yesterday.

Intensive part of a campaign for $55,000 has been concluded and Canon Tomalin said it is hoped the objective will be reached "in the next few weeks."

New site is at Richmond and Richardson, three blocks from the present church. New building is expected to be open before Christmas, 1956.

The Nursing Sisters' branch of the Canadian Legion, BESL No. 152 will hold their regular meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. F. Thomas, 512 Linden avenue, Monday, Nov. 7 at 8 p.m.

Six Canadian Athletes Named to Hall of Fame

SASKATOON (CP)—Accomplishments old and new in running, shooting, lifting and swimming have carried six athletes into the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada's Hall of Fame.

Swelling the number of Hall-of-Fame members to 39 are marathon runner Walter Ewing of Hamilton and Gerard Cote of St. Hyacinthe, Que.; rifle shot Gilmour Boia of Toronto, the late Walter H. Ewing of Montreal, a trapshooter; weightlifter Gerald Gratton of Montreal and swimmer Bev Whitlall of Montreal.

Weightlifting was performed from 1924 until 1943, competing in the 1934 British Empire Games at the age of 42 and appearing in the Olympics three times.

Cote is a four-time winner of the Boston marathon, won the U.S. championship three times and has won 123 races during his career.

Boia has been shooting since the age of 14 and has ruled as Canadian small-bore champion for 15 years. He captured the world tournament at Venezuela in 1954.

The late Ewing was Olympic claybird champion when the event was held in London 1908; Gratton has compiled an impressive mark in weightlifting since 1934, winning the Olympic Games, and Miss Whitlall was the outstanding swimmer during the recent Pan-American Games.

your home during construction

The Telephone Company will install concealed inside telephone wiring in your new home for the main telephone, plus wiring for any number of extension phones you may require. This is a free service.

Concealed telephone wiring must be placed in the early stages of construction. Modern building methods make it difficult to conceal phone wires once the walls of the house are covered.

For this reason, you should be sure to consult with your local telephone office while the home is still in the planning stage. The staff will be glad to arrange for free concealed telephone wiring, and they will also help you plan the other details of modern telephone service for your new home.

Rich Baseball Career Ends for Cy Young In Tiny Ohio Village

PEOLI, Ohio (AP) — Cy Young died Friday.

Baseball knew him as its greatest winning pitcher, first finger to enter the Hall of Fame. His 30 odd neighbors in this tiny village knew him for the most tender and enduring love story ever written in his native Tuscarawas county hills.

Cy was 58. It was 65 years ago that he trudged out of the hill country, a raw-boned farm youth of 23, to write one of the most glowing chapters in baseball's history. He appeared in 906 games over a 22-year span in the big leagues, winning 511 and losing 215. He pitched four no-hit games, three in the majors.

He was 45 when he finally hung up his glove, after losing a 10 game to a youthful Grover Cleveland Alexander. He had struck out 2,832 batters in his long career.

SPINNER OF YARNS

His real name was Denton True Young, although he's enshrined on the scroll of fame as Denton Tecumseh Young. But everyone hereabouts, and throughout the world knew him as Cy—a spinner of yarns, a woodchopper and an outspoken critic of the modern trend of changing pitchers at the first sign of trouble.

Cy, despite his fabulous record, never earned more than $2,500 a year in baseball. His first salary at Cleveland was $4,400.

"But I got home with more than $1,000 of that first year's pay," Cy recalled years ago. "And when I got home, with more money in one lump than anyone in these hills had ever seen, I married the girl on the next farm. (That was) Robba Miller, nicknamed 'Bobby')."

"For almost a quarter of a century we walked hand-in-hand through baseball. Then we came home and moved into the old house I had inherited from my grandparents who had raised me."

Greg Kabat, star quarterback of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, was awarded the McKinney trophy as the most valuable player in the Western Interprovincial Football Union 15 years ago today. WILL JOIN BOBBY

Then old Cy recalled how he moved, in 1935, to the hilltop home of his wife and son Bobby.

"From up here," he said, "I can look down on the little churchyard where Bobby is buried. I'll just stay here, waiting for the day when I can join her."

Friday at 9:30 a.m., death came to the colorful and beloved No. 1 citizen of the hill country as he sat in his favorite armchair at the Benedum home. Through the window he could see the little cemetery of the Peoli Methodist church—where he probably will be buried alongside Bobby.

Death was attributed to a heart attack.

Als Won't Coast Eastern Grid Teams Face Busy Weekend

Playoffs dominate the eastern Canada football scene this weekend, except for the cut-and-dried Big Four, which will just be killing time.

The Ontario Rugby Football Union opened its championship play-off Friday night at Kitchener with the Dutchmen defending their title against Sarnia Imperials in a best-of-three series.

It will take two games Saturday to decide who meets Queen's for the intercollegiate crown. Queen's, who already have at least a tie for first place sewed up, will tangle with McGill Redmen at Montreal while the winless University of Western Ontario Mustangs, relegated to the cellar, meet University of Toronto Blues at Toronto.

Only a win by McGill coupled with a loss or a tie by Varsity can get the Redmen into the play-off. Otherwise it will be a University of Toronto crew facing the Gaels in the sudden-death affair at Kingston, Ont., Nov. 12.

WIND UP SCHEDULE

The big four race was settled last week with Montreal Alouettes, Hamilton Tiger-Cats, Toronto Argonauts and Ottawa Rough Riders finishing in that order.

It will be Montreal at Hamilton and Toronto at Ottawa Saturday in the windup of the regular schedule. The Argos and Tics clash in the semi-final at Hamilton the following Saturday with the winner meeting Montreal Nov. 19 to decide the East's Grey Cup contender.

For teams with nothing to gain, none of the Big Four squads showed any signs of lethargy. Coach Peashead Walker said his Als will be out for another victory.

The penalties of taking it easy, pointed up clearly last year at

Former English Davis Cupper Helps To Build Future Stars

By ARCH MACKENZIE

LONDON (CP)—Tony Mottram was always on the fringes in the world class tennis set. But for nearly 10 years he was all Britain had.

The 35-year-old wartime Royal Air Force flier, who with his wife has turned professional, travel British by-ways for the same purpose.

"Our idea," says Mottram, "is to give exhibitions, clinics and teaching, especially in those parts of the country where there are only small tournaments or even none at all."

He wants to help train the youthful Davis Cup team which has replaced himself and his doubles partner, Geoff Paish. It may have been a big disappointment to him that he was passed over for the prize British professional plum at the all-England tennis club at Wimbledon. The post went to Australian George Worthington, presumably because he is younger than Mottram.

Looking back on his 56 Davis Cup matches—including 25 singles victories and 11 doubles triumphs—Mottram says of his decision to turn professional: "It was one that neither of us have reconsidered for a moment. We have had so much fun out of tennis that we would like to give something back."

Between his first Davis Cup appearance in 1947 against Poland and his 1955 swan song against India, he carried the British flag in 19 Davis Cup draws—sometimes in doubles as well as singles.

Mottram's peak was passed a couple of years ago in a career highlighted by two major events. Once he got as far as the Wimbledon doubles finals and in 1951 he pulled a Wimbledon sensation by ousting Jaroslav Drobny, the exiled Czech who finally went all the way in the Wimbledon singles in 1954.

Mottram may or may not have left his chances of world tennis stardom in the RAF, but he always was trying in one of Britain's bleakest tennis periods. He still wants to help in the cultivation of some promising youngsters, who include Billy Knight, Roger Becker, Michael Davies and Bob Wilson.

He and his wife, Joy, also a gifted tennis player, will winter in the West Indies, teaching, lecturing and demonstrating. In the spring, the Mottrams plan to

Mayor Surprised Parking Meters Not Patrolled

Mayor Claude Harrison yesterday expressed surprise at learning that city parking meters are not patrolled on Wednesday afternoons.

"If no one is checking the meters, then they should not be in operation," he said.

The meter patrol has Wednesday afternoons off and as a result many well-intentioned drivers pay meter money while others park free.

A meeting of the Victoria branch of the Canadian Diabetic Association will be held in the nurses' home auditorium at St. Joseph's Hospital at 8 p.m. Friday, Care of diabetic patients will be discussed.

F. G. Huxley, was elected president of the Victoria local council of the Amalgamated Civil Servants of Canada at the annual meeting this week.

Other officers elected are R. L. Fiddick, vice-president, Miss Lily Northam, secretary-treasurer; L. K. Metro, R. H. Black, J. Marshall, H. Newton and D. Corbett, executive committee.

Crackerless Cracker

Mayor Claude Harrison had fireworks on his desk yesterday, but the bang had been removed.

He had a red model schoolhouse of the kind that flares for several minutes and then explodes with a big bang to the enjoyment of the young stars concerned.

It was sent by a principal of a private school in Vancouver who is sympathetic to the mayor's plan to ban fire works on Halloween.

I took it from a boy in school and to send it through the mail I had to remove a cracker four inches long and one-inch in diameter," the principal wrote.

In these days we are fighting a destructive element. It seems unfortunate children should be given a model of a burning schoolhouse. I consider it most harmful," he said.

This letter is only one of many the mayor has received in support of his plan to ban fireworks.

City council public works committee will seek a by-law to impose a two-hour parking zone for 100 feet from the corner of St. Lawrence and St. James streets.

Committee chairman Arthur Dowell said yesterday that cars of employees of the Victoria Machinery Dept. have been parking all day in the area making shopping there difficult.

Capital City Speakers Group meets Monday at 8 p.m. in city council chamber.

By CHRIS FOSTER

An artists' colony—with its own Arts Ball—is growing swiftly in an old three-story building in the heart of Victoria.

Members range from pert, bearded nurses to an 81-year-old retired deep sea engineer and a former lady school teacher who spent 25 years in Malaya.

"Our aim is to provide an outlet for local artists and art students," said Theo Hare, director of the Norfolk Galleries, last night.

"We have found Victoria sometimes forgets it has wonderful talent of its own and tends to go looking far away for it."

LOCAL SUCCESS
One local artist teaching at the school is A. D. J. Pitts of Saanich, who recently sold 51 Indian paintings to the provincial archives, and another 27 to the Glenbow Foundation at Calgary, after an exhibition at the galleries.

At the moment water colors and woodcuts by famed Canadian artist J. W. Phillips, R.C.A., are hanging on the school's egg blue walls.

Next week First World War veterans, then Hare will be putting on an exhibition by Major H. S. Tasker Taylor of the Union Club who has painted in New Zealand, Kenya and British Columbia. Two receptions will be held.

VICTORIAN NEXT
Showing after Major Tasker Taylor will be Glen Jones, a young Victorian who has studied in Paris and Mexico.

"There are 140 of us here now," said dark haired 19-year-old brigadier's daughter Heather Adams last night.

Heather is one of 16 young Victorians attending the school on scholarships put up by private citizens.

And the Arts Ball? "That will be held at the end of December," said Mr. Hare. "Who ever heard of an art circle without an arts ball?"

Seen in Passing

Percy Graves tinkering with one of the big red fire engines which are his mechanical charges. (Percy for 19 years has been a fireman and driver for Victoria Fire Department. He is starting on a new assignment—mechanic-inspector. He is in full charge of maintenance of valuable equipment. Percy succeeds "Gunner" Mathews, who retired in September. He lives at 3108 Henderson with his wife and two children, Fred, 22, and Carol, 17.)

Frank H. Farbridge vehemently denying Mr. Wismer's recent passing Communist literature to Eric Chapman, as reported in this column. (Fact is, he's a fierce antagonist of anything red-tinged.) David Anderson, North Saanich Art Centre head, swooping along West Saanich road in his car deep in thought. . . . Capt. Harold Kinnaird of Sidney Duck Farm, admiring his brand new, brilliant sign which reads, "Phasants," easily the most distinguished sign in North Saanich. . . . Phil Lomas, Central Saanich, with a song in his heart preparing for new duties with Butler Brothers. . . . Earnest Lee, Brentwood, ready to take over building inspection and assistant assessor chores for Central Saanich Municipality.

Aged Saanich Man Collapses, Dies
William Streeter, 83-year-old Saanich man who collapsed on Burrside road yesterday afternoon, died in St. Joseph's Hospital last night. His home was at 3115 Orillia.

Wismer Labels MacMillan Benevolent Island Monarch

Suggestion by H. R. MacMillan that no more forest management licences be granted in the Vancouver forest district would be "the death sentence of many industries."

This opinion was expressed yesterday by Gordon Wismer, Q.C., former B.C. attorney-general, representing the Forest Development Policy Association at the Sloan commission.

Mr. Wismer suggested in his cross-examination of Mr. MacMillan that the lumber magnate sought a virtual monopoly in the Vancouver district now that he had his forest management licences and a ready supply of timber.

"I put it to you, Mr. MacMillan," Mr. Wismer said at one point, "that in your position of advantage, sitting in your acres, that you are in the position of a benevolent monarch of the Vancouver forest district with a few crown princes, and you are throwing the crumbs to these other fellows."

The other fellows were the small loggers which Mr. MacMillan was "defending."

THEY WANT LICENCES

Mr. Wismer's clients are a group of 16 "middle-sized" industries, 13 of which have applied for forest management licences and three of which have obtained them.

Mr. MacMillan finished reading his 82-page brief yesterday. It contained some criticisms of all aspects of forest administration and the forest management licence system.

Conflicting Interests

Mr. Wismer sought to establish it was in the public interest for a forest management licence to be responsible for fire and insect control, rather than the forest service under a public working circle system.

"Do you agree," Mr. Wismer said, "that if the interests of any particular group are in conflict with the interests of the people as a whole, then those (group) interests must be disregarded?"

"I would like to hear the tail end of this question before the front end," he replied. He added that he was "concerned about what might be read into the answer."

"You don't mind being questioned, do you?" Mr. Wismer asked.

"I LOVE IT," answered the multi-millionaire lumberman.

"But you don't want to give any answers."

"I don't want to be led down a garden path."

When Mr. Wismer asked Mr. MacMillan if forest management licences were "a good and efficient way of managing the forests," the latter refused to answer. He said he had "said everything I could think of about forest management licences in my brief."

Under further cross-examination, Mr. MacMillan admitted that under a forest management licence "the public is certainly well-protected." But he complained that conditions imposed on the operator were "onerous."

At one point Mr. MacMillan said his company considered the period following the first 90 year rotation period "of very little importance."

Expanding for Profit

He said the $40,000,000 pulp mill expansion at Port Alberni and other developments by his company were being done in the hope of making a profit in the next few years.

Asked about the large cost of research in silviculture, he said the company did it "because we have to under the contract (the forest management licence agreement)."

"If we don't the forest service will cut us off right behind the ears," Mr. MacMillan said.

In an attempt to emphasize the extent of Mr. MacMillan's holdings in timber resources, Mr. Wismer pointed out that the vast acreage amounted to 1,500 square miles.

Later, Mr. MacMillan apparently found himself in the position of defending forest management licences under cross examination from Vancouver lawyer Ron Howard on behalf of the B.C. Forest Management Association. The association is made up of loggers who have opposed the FML system.

LICENCES AND MILLS
Mr. Howard sought to establish that forest management licences were not necessary for the development and construction of new pulp mills.

Mr. MacMillan did not agree with this. In his brief he had said that the licences had brought new pulp mills to B.C.

In one exchange about utilization of waste, Mr. MacMillan contended that it can be carried to the point where it is unprofitable.

"You find they (company foresters) have stopped wasting wood and stopped wasting money," he said.

Mr. MacMillan will be back on the stand Monday at 10:30. The inquiry hearings under Chief Justice Gordon Sloan are expected to continue in Victoria for about two weeks.

Bapeco Fire Extinguished

A flash fire in a varnish vat at British America Paint Company, 201 Belleville, was put out in seconds yesterday afternoon.

Damage was negligible and the fire was extinguished by company firefighters before the Victoria fire department arrived.

Funeral Tuesday

Eminent Jurist Judge Shandley Dies at Age 78

Last surviving member of one of the distinguished law firms in western Canada's history, Judge Herbert Howard Shandley died in Royal Jubilee hospital at 1 p.m. yesterday. He was 78 years of age.

Funeral services are expected to be held in Hayward's funeral home Tuesday afternoon.

After suffering a heart attack in 1953, Judge Shandley retired from the County Court bench of Victoria, to which he was appointed Sept. 18, 1936. He suffered a second heart seizure Tuesday.

Before his appointment to the bench, he succeeded Judge Peter S. Lippman, who had retired, he was for 29 years with the firm of Elliott, Maclean and Shandley.

While a judge, he was known for his successful campaign to change the arrangement for naming of the Victoria police commission, and for his royal commission inquiry into the death of Daniel Sanger of Victoria in Okakilla prison.

Born in Walsley, Cheshire, England, a suburb of Liverpool, in 1877 he was educated in England and came to Victoria in 1906.

In his youth, Judge Shandley was a member of several Victoria senior football teams in inter-city matches.

ARTICLED IN 1906

He became articled to R. T. Elliott, K.C., in 1900, and joined the firm after he was admitted to the bar in 1906. H. A. Maclean, K.C., joined the firm six years later.

Until his appointment as a judge, he was active in liberal organizations. He was a member of the board of directors of Royal Jubilee Hospital for 20 years, and was chairman for two of those years.

In 1932, an amendment to the Municipal Act gave Victoria a police commission consisting of the mayor, the county court judge and the police court magistrate. Judge Shandley automatically became a member upon his appointment as a judge.

But in 1937, he said: "It is unfair that a judge should have to sit with the commission, listening to police plans for law enforcement and then, perhaps, later sit in judgment on the cases arising out of them."

Despite charges by Conservatives that a change would mean "politics mixed up with police control," the Liberal government of 1937 won legislative approval for an amendment changing commission set-up to the mayor and two aldermen. Later, the commissioners were elected separately.

As a royal commissioner, Judge

JUDGE H. H. SHANDLEY

Shandley in 1951 found Okakilla prison authorities blameless in the death of Sanger shortly after he was moved from Victoria to await trial.

From 1940 until 1943, Judge Shandley was rental control administrator in this area.

A golfer all his life, he was president of Victoria Golf Club at the time of his death, and was proud of two holes-in-one there and another in a Jasper tournament.

EPILOGUE

Chief Justice Gordon Sloan said last night: "I was indeed saddened to learn of the sudden death of Judge Shandley."

"As a law student, I was articled to him in 1918 and joined his law firm again in 1919 on my return from overseas in the First World War. I have thus been associated with him for almost 40 years—the last six years of which as a close friend and next-door neighbor."

"He was a wise counsellor, a just, upright and sympathetic judge and a man of sterling and forthright character. Men like him enrich the community in which they live by the quiet teaching of their daily lives."

"We shall miss him greatly."

"Victoria has lost one of its best citizens and the legal profession one of its best friends," said County Court Judge J. B. Clearhue. "It was always a pleasure to practise before him, as every one was given a fair hearing."

"He was a man whom I have held in great respect and whose friendship I have much valued."

"I regret his passing. . . . He was an old friend of mine," said deputy attorney-general H. Alan Maclean, son of Judge Shandley's former law partner. "He read his law books and kept studying cases to the end."

Survivors include his widow, Elizabeth, at home, 1049 Beach drive; one daughter, Mrs. R. R. (Vida) Wilde, Victoria; one grandchild; two sisters, in Walsley and Toronto, and a brother in California.

Lack of Ferry to U.S. To Blame

Serious Drop in Tourist Traffic Causes Concern

By ALEC MERRIMAN

Deep concern over a big drop in tourist cars visiting Victoria since ferry service to Port Angeles was stopped on Sept. 30 was expressed yesterday by Mayor Claude Harrison and the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

Car travel to Victoria last month dropped by 2,085 cars over October of last year, a drop of 37 per cent according to figures released by Canadian Customs.

In the light of the loss sustained in car travel, the mayor said, he would immediately renew his bid to the federal maritime commission for government aid for ferry services operating out of Victoria.

A committee from the publicity bureau directors will call on R. J. Acheson in Seattle within the next few days to see what has become of a promise to put a $3,000,000 car ferry on the Victoria Port Angeles run on a year-round basis starting next June.

Mr. Acheson, president of Black Ball Transport Inc. (not to be confused with Black Ball Ferry Co. Ltd., previous operators of the Victoria-Port Angeles service), announced plans for the ferry at an integrity meeting held in Port Angeles in early September.

Since that announcement there has been some delay due to financial arrangements.

Publicity bureau commissioner George J. Warren returned from Seattle this week where he visited Washington State Ferries, Black Ball Transport and Black Ball Ferry Company.

"No one seemed to know what is going to happen to the ferry service in 1956," Mr. Warren said.

He added that the CPR has promised to run its usual summer Port Angeles-Victoria service.

Publicity bureau directors expressed alarm at the serious drop in business. In September customs authorities handled 8,542 cars and in October they handled only 1,636 cars, a drop of nearly 8,000 cars over September and a drop of 2,085 cars over October, 1954, when 3,721 cars visited this city.

There were 1,000 less visitor inquiries at the publicity bureau this October than in October of 1954.

Mayor Harrison yesterday waved a letter bearing Prime Minister St. Laurent's signature and at the same time said reporters he had been told in Ottawa that "if I can show them at any time there was a loss, serious consideration would be given to the question of government aid for shipping."

He added: "I am not going to let this thing go. It is too big."

He attributed the drop in tourist travel to withdrawal of Victoria-Port Angeles ferry service on Sept. 30.

It is the first time in over 50 years

Victoria has not had a passenger ferry connection with Port Angeles. Washington State Ferries who took over the run last summer when Black Ball Ferry Company Ltd. withdrew, ceased operation for the winter on Sept. 30 and have made no announcement yet as to their plans for next summer.

Beauty and You

By MARION MATTHEWS

Q What can I do about an oily skin?

A First of all, check your diet. Is it the type that includes plenty of fresh milk and vegetables? Is it the type that excludes rich, heavy foods, greasy, sweet and spicy? When you eat sensibly, your skin usually adjusts itself and becomes more normal. In the meantime, I suggest thorough cleansing and this can be a soap and water cleansing morning and night. If you have an extreme case of oiliness, wash a third time during the day as well.

When you cleanse with a cream, use a light, fluffy type, use an astringent afterward, to remove the film of cream more effectively. Pay plenty of attention to your hair and scalp, also. They often are oily, too, with such a skin condition, and frequent shampoos and daily brushing—that stimulates the scalp will help. Don't be afraid of the brushing, thinking it only aggravates the oily condition. You can in time help overcome this effect and even if you must shampoo every third or fourth day, do so until the condition is corrected.

Q My eyes are very deep-set. How can I improve their looks? A. You can create an illusion of larger eyes or lessen the deep-set look they have by arching your eyebrows just a trifle lower than they grow naturally. You might try filling in this area with an eyebrow pencil. More importantly, the ends of your lashes with mascara, don't outline the eyes with pencil, which will only emphasize the look you are trying to eliminate.

Take the Pattersons for example

Times were not always so good for the Pattersons. When Brian bought Ann's ring several years back for instance, he blessed Binks for having Budget Terms... for it meant he could get her a ring she was proud of—and still afford to take the bus to work. But fortune did change and Brian's business successes have given them many of life's luxuries. Ann hasn't found it necessary to change her ring though. She finds it just as beautiful and impressive as the day she received it. Stabbing Conviction Follows Chinatown Halloween Fight

A Chinatown fracas which resulted in a stabbing led to the conviction in police court yesterday of a 22-year-old Chinese, Fong, 642 Herald, who was sentenced to three months in jail for the offence.

Victim of the stabbing was Chan York Sang, 746 Pritchard, who told court through an interpreter that he was walking up Fisgard in the early hours of Oct. 30 when a firecracker was thrown at him.

Sang spoke to the accused who was sitting in a car with two young white men.

"Fong came out of the car and swore at me in both English and Chinese," said Sang in evidence. "We pushed each other for a bit then Fong hit me with something in his hand."

Admitted as exhibits were a bloodstained undershirt and two knives.

SAW MEN FIGHTING

Const. William Mayzes related how he saw two men fighting and went to break it up. He told Fong to drive off and the accused did so.

At this point, the constable saw the bloodstained vest and ran after the car. He arrested Fong who had a pocket knife and a sharply-pointed miniature sword in his possession.

Jubilee Hospital interns described how he treated a half-inch, clean wound in Sang's chest.

The wound, he said, had stopped bleeding. He thought it was caused by a sharp instrument such as a knife.

Another prosecution witness, Harmon Leong, 919 Caledonia, said he was with Sang at the time of the incident and saw a "flashing object" in Fong's hand when he hit Sang.

Mr. McKenna objected frequently but was overruled by Magistrate Henry C. Hall.

Defence witness Ronald J. Kaye, 1009 Hillside, told the court he was in the car at the time when he threw a cracker out of the window into the gutter.

"Sang just walked into it," he said.

Kaye said he did not see the accused with a knife nor did he see a flash of metal. He added that if Fong did have such an object he would have seen it.

WAS AFRAID

Fong, giving evidence on his own behalf, admitted drawing a knife but only because he was afraid.

"I had no intention of hitting him with it," said the accused. "I don't know if the knife did hit him."

Mr. McKenna asked that the charge be dismissed because Fong had acted in self defence.

"It was just a case where Fong was protecting himself," said the magistrate.

Case of self defence... Fong was quite justified in taking this action to protect himself.

The magistrate, however, said he could see no occasion whatsoever for use of a knife in the circumstances and convicted.

Sentence of six months imprisonment was given Eugene Jang, who was convicted a week ago on a charge of theft of a U-drive car last year.

Jang rented the car here on a 24-hour basis, drove it to Vancouver, and then on to Toronto, where he was apprehended.

Appearing for Jang, James Proudfoot said accused's wife was expecting a second child and asked for leniency.

A city man convicted of assaulting his wife told the court he was "deeply ashamed" and had learnt his lesson.

Ronald Turner Elliott, who was convicted on a charge of common assault Wednesday, was given a suspended sentence and told to enter into a $500 bond to be of good behaviour.

"Sir, I'd just like to say I've learnt a lesson. I'll never forget during the past three days," said Elliott. "I'm deeply ashamed."

Herman J. Lavalie, 2724 Forbes, was fined $35 and costs and had his licence suspended when he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving without due care and attention.

His explanation to police: He was so intent on watching a following motorcycle policeman that he rammed a power pole.

"It was just stupid driving," said Lavalie.

A similar fine was imposed upon Charles Henry Holland, 1924 Davis, who pleaded guilty to careless driving.

"I thought I had plenty of time to get across the intersection," he said.

Mr. McKenna objected frequently but was overruled by Magistrate Henry C. Hall.

Defence witness Ronald J. Kaye, 1009 Hillside, told the court he was in the car at the time when he threw a cracker out of the window into the gutter.

"Sang just walked into it," he said.

Kaye said he did not see the accused with a knife nor did he see a flash of metal. He added that if Fong did have such an object he would have seen it.

WAS AFRAID

Fong, giving evidence on his own behalf, admitted drawing a knife but only because he was afraid.

"I had no intention of hitting him with it," said the accused.

"I don't know if the knife did hit him."

Mr. McKenna asked that the charge be dismissed because Fong had acted in self defence.

"It was just a case where Fong was protecting himself," said the magistrate.

Case of self defence... Fong was quite justified in taking this action to protect himself.

The magistrate, however, said he could see no occasion whatsoever for use of a knife in the circumstances and convicted.

Teachers Brave Rains To Attend Convention

Three hundred delegates from all points south of Nanaimo attended sessions in Victoria yesterday of the three-day meeting of the B.C. Teachers' Federation.

Only 200 of the expected 400 teachers arrived Thursday, the first day of the session, after braving washouts and floods.

West Vancouver High School principal J. A. Inkster spoke on yesterday morning.

Two speakers were heard during the afternoon, J. Phillipson, president of the B.C. Teachers' Federation, and A. Sprague, executive assistant.

B.C. Teachers' Federation, Vancouver. They discussed growth and work of the federation.

Convention activities terminate at noon.

Chief Inspector of schools for B.C., Frank Levis, and F. A. McEellan, school inspector for Sooke and Cowichan, will speak this morning, followed by panel discussions.

NOT JUST GOOD BUT THE BEST PICTURE IN CANADIAN TV!

NOT JUST BETTER

MOST LIFE-LIKE PICTURE!

Clearer... brighter... because the new Westinghouse "Luma-Ray" Aluminized Picture Tube directs all the light to the face of the tube... actually doubles picture brightness! Blacker blacks, purer whites, up to 100% more "in-between" shades for greatest-ever detail and realism!

MOST INTERFERENCE-FREE PICTURE!

In actual side-by-side tests, the Westinghouse picture stayed clear under interference that ruined other pictures! Because a new "Noise-Killer" circuit can actually find and trap interference... before it reaches the picture tube!

MOST EASY-TO-LOOK-AT PICTURE!

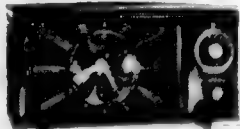

Complete eye comfort! Heavy, tilted Glare-Free Black Tele-Glass actually "filters out" glare... absorbs reflected light! Softly-gleaming Copper-Tone Picture Mask reduces contrast between picture brightness and room illumination.

Only Westinghouse TV is AREA-PROVED for top performance everywhere in Canada!

Only Westinghouse can present this complete proof of top performance! Mobile Research Units travelled thousands of miles... made hundreds of tests... in 29 separate TV areas from coast to coast. Westinghouse TV was proved under all conditions... right out to remote "Fringe" areas... in many cases over one hundred airline miles from the transmitter.

Rail Unions Ask Quick Reply On $90-Million Wage Demand

MONTREAL (CP) — Rail union officers said Friday labor groups seeking more than $90,000,000 a year in contract demands on the railways will push for a fast decision on negotiations.

The predictions came from Frank Hall, chairman of the negotiating committee for 15 unions representing 150,000 workers and Stan Fugate, senior negotiator for the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (CBRE), Canada's largest transport union.

Mr. Hall said in an interview the unions hope to conclude discussions with the railways in three or four months from Nov. 1, the day the labor groups mailed the railways' requests for a wage health-welfare package worth about 33 cents an hour.

Cost of the package to the rail ways, which received the proposals Thursday, is estimated at about $90,000,000 a year.

Mr. Fugate, writing in the CBRE publication Canadian Transport and "We shall not tolerate the period of negotiations, hostilities, recommendations or decisions extending beyond the minimum time of limits prescribed by law as has happened in the past."

The extra trick South was down was only incidentally important. The fact is that South should have played the king of hearts—not the jack—because there was grave danger that he would lose the contract by diamond continuation even if the jack forced the ace. Still it was imperative to keep W off the lead, as between two equally likely chances, only one—the play of the king—was correct in this instance.

The auxiliary naval vessel Whitethroat is scheduled to be transferred to Esquimaux, Halifax about the beginning of the new year.

The Whitethroat, which will be manned by a civilian crew, will probably be used as a layer in boom defence work. It has performed similar duties at Halifax, but a cable laying vessel is in there now.

Shapely Chicago Blonde Was Loser In Battle with Pajama-Clad Star

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD—UP—Actress Jill Jordan charged Friday that Susan Hayward attacked her with a clothes brush and a lighted cigarette when Jill walked in unannounced on a pajama-clad Susan and actor Donald Barry.

Both women told different versions of the fracas.

Susan admitted she kicked the younger girl after Jill entered Barry's home and walked into the bedroom and made an insulting remark. It was nasty.

"I don't know who swung the first blow. I struck her and she struck me. I would say I was in the dining room at the time, but I wasn't. I was in the bedroom."

She said she was wearing pajamas.

Earlier she told reporters she and Barry were drinking coffee, but Jill, displaying a sore left jaw and a bitten thumb, explained "I didn't have a chance to say anything to Susan before the tempestuous star let

"Furthermore," she said "they weren't drinking coffee."

Jill charged that 20th Century-Fox studio Susan's employees "were on the phone all day, playing with me."

Church Membership Boom May Be Result of 'Fad'

WASHINGTON (UP)—Leading Protestant clergymen differ considerably in their appraisals of the current boom in church membership.

Some, like President Eisenhower's pastor, Dr. Edward L.

a genuine revival of religious faith. They believe Americans are turning to God because they have found secular philosophies an inadequate answer to the overwhelming problems of life in the atomic age.

Others, such as Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, president of the national Council of Churches, fear that religion is in danger of becoming a fad.

"They do not question the sincerity of the spiritual hunger that has become evident since the Second World War. But they see disturbing indications that many people are trying to satisfy this hunger with a superficial brand of religiosity that has little to do with mature faith in God."

Whatever interpretation is placed on it, there is no question about the nationwide surge of interest in religion. It is reflected in church membership, now at an all-time high of 97,500,000 persons, more than 80 per cent of the population.

Churchmen agree this is true, as far as it goes. Their how far—or rather, how deep it goes.

Dr. Blake recently warned Protestant ministers against complacency about their big congregations. "Everybody seems to be interested in religion," he said. "But many people with a new religious interest are attempting to turn that interest into magic—to use God for their own purposes rather than to serve God and find His purposes."

He listed "fear, selfishness and a longing for security" as motives for church attendance that fall short of sincere, religious devotion.

Other clergymen have misgivings about the vogue of "peace-of-mind religion," a term they apply to the school of preaching exemplified by the popular Dr. Norman Vincent Peale. Dr. Peale, pastor of Marble Collegiate church in New York and author of numerous books and articles, has emphasized the power of faith to overcome feelings of insecurity and frustration and to lead the believer to success and "confident living."

Theologian Reinhold Niebuhr and Dean Liston Pope of Yale divinity school, among others, have criticized the "peace-of-mind" preaching on the grounds that it tends to depict religion as a mere means to a selfish end, and to make God appear the servant of man, rather than vice versa.

Dr. Peale's defenders include Dr. Elton, who is pastor of Washington's National Presbyterian church.

Dr. Elton says "ecclesiastical cynicism" should be ashamed of themselves for "sneering" at Dr. Peale's methods. He acknowledges that Dr. Peale may "over-emphasize" the healing aspects of faith, but says he does not depict religion as an "easy out."

Dr. Elton, who has published a book entitled "America's Spiritual Renaissance," is confident that the nation is experiencing a genuine religious awakening, and deplores what he calls the efforts of "temperamental debunkers" to explain it away.

Disturbance Charged To Alberni Quintet

NANAIMO — Five Port Alberni residents appeared before Magistrate E. D. Strongman in police court here yesterday charged with "causing a disturbance" Monday night. All pleaded not guilty. They were remanded until Monday on bail, to face a charge of disturbing the peace.

The charge was brought by Mrs. Le Vonne Hassell, 375 Franklin, Nanaimo, against Andrew David Bordin, Kenneth Syman, Dennis Campbell, Josephine Hassell and Barbara Cathcart.

In the same court Syman was charged with assaulting Mrs. Le Vonne Hassell "by grasping her about the neck." A plea of not guilty was also entered in this case and remand granted.

Todd's Drive, Energy Amaze David Niven

BY BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—No actor ever had more awe of his employer than does David Niven for producer Michael Todd.

Todd has a knack of setting Hollywood on its ear. He was one of the plotters behind Cinecra, which started the wide-screen revolution in the movies. He developed a rival process, dubbed it Toddton and filmed "Oklahoma" with it.

At present Todd is whipping up a multimillion-dollar international project called "Around the World in 80 Days."

"Todd is the most amazing man I have ever met," said Niven, who is starring as Phileas Fogg in the Jules Verne story "We were in Durango Colorado shooting a train sequence," he said. "On the way to the location, Todd's car was halted by a flock of sheep. But he was under contract," he said. He had the sheep working in the picture for a week.

Inspired by the pictorial quality of the sheep, he sought bigger animals. He was told there was a big herd of buffalo in Oklahoma. So he moved east, crew and train to Oklahoma.

Todd had built a 19th-century balloon and hired a 18-foot crane to lift it in the air. And Niven suggested to his costar Mario Moreno that they take the lift without benefit of doubles.

"I must have been out of my head," Niven said. "We had this scene in which the balloon was to go up and I was to pull Mario into it. I looked down and we were 30 feet off the ground. It was all right for Mario, he's a bull fighter and an acrobat. I couldn't lift him up. So I reached down with my umbrella and pried him in as best I could."

Little Mistakes Cause Big Crashes

OTTAWA (UPI)—Group

Capt. Ralph C. Davis, RCAF director of flight safety described Friday how small mechanical errors can cause fatal plane crashes.

He was speaking before the annual meeting of the Canadian Aeronautical Institute and the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences, which concluded here Friday.

James Ellis Rites Held From Chapel

Funeral services were held yesterday from Chaplains' funeral chapel for James A. Ellis, veteran of many years service on Esquimalt coast, who died Wednesday at the Veterans' hospital.

Mr. Ellis was a resident of this area for the past 20 years, coming here from Prince Albert, Sask. He was born in England.

Mr. Ellis was a member of the Esquimalt branch of the Canadian Legion. During the First World War he served overseas with the 28th Infantry Battalion.

Surviving are his widow, Maude; a daughter, Mrs. D. A. MacLeod of Victoria; two sons, Albert John and Richard James of Victoria; a sister in England and five grandchildren.

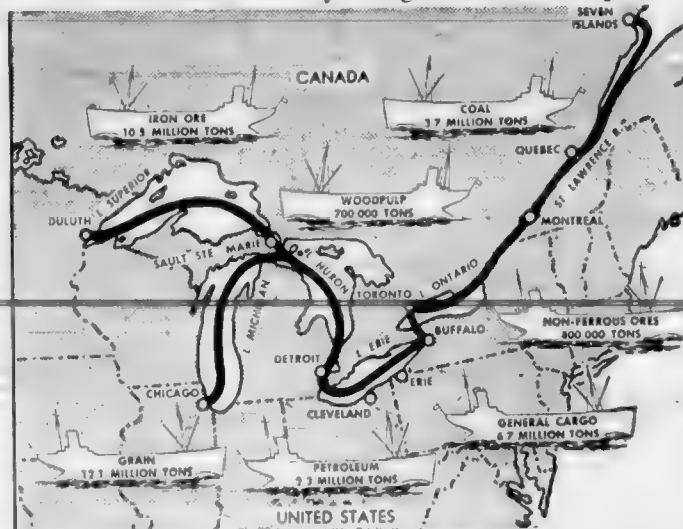

Rev. Douglas Kendall will officiate at services. Interment will be in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Queen Mother Remembers Dead

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen Mother Friday planted a personal cross in the Commonwealth Field of Remembrance at St. Margaret's churchyard, Westminster, in memory of the dead of two world wars.

There are 365 steps from the architect's office in the Capitol at Washington, D.C., to the top of the dome.

St. Lawrence Seaway Cargo Will Be Triple

First year of the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway is expected to see ocean tonnage tripled or quadrupled. First impact of the project is already felt in Canadian and U.S. towns along the river as construction crews move whole towns, dredge canals, build huge cofferdams. If, in 1959 when the seaway will first be opened to ocean ships, the tonnage is three times that of the present. It is expected it will gradually rise to be seven times present volume. Full significance of the seaway to Canada will not be immediately after the first ships go through, but in the long-term development of such things as Labrador iron deposits which will find their way to U.S. mills through the Great Lakes.—(Central Press Canadian)

Japan Agrees To Curb Whaling

TOKYO (Reuters)—Japan has decided to recognize and accept the International Whaling Commission on the number of whales caught in the Arctic. The restrictions were agreed upon by 17 member countries of the commission in Moscow last July for fear that whale stocks were being seriously diminished.

ROME (AP)—K. J. Holsaake, deputy prime minister and minister of agriculture of New Zealand, Friday was elected unanimously as chairman of the 10th anniversary conference of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

Richfield Plans B.C. Oil Search

Oil and gas exploration permits held in the name of the Prudential Trust in Vancouver have been transferred to the Richfield Oil Co. according to a spokesman of the B.C. department of mines.

The permits cover a considerable area in the northern part of the province, including the Mackenzie Pass, which will be explored for oil and gas.

The permits were transferred to the Richfield Oil Co. as part of a reorganization of the company's assets.

It is understood that Richfield Oil Co. is planning to explore for oil and gas in the Mackenzie Pass area, and that the company is also planning to explore for oil and gas in the Mackenzie Pass area.

Everyone knows that the Mackenzie Pass is a rich area for oil and gas, and that the Richfield Oil Co. is planning to explore for oil and gas in the Mackenzie Pass area.

Journey by Speeder Surveyor Relates Ordeal by Flood

Tired and still a bit soggy after his ordeal, Victoria surveyor J. R. Hughes last night described his 12-hour journey through torrential rains by railroad speeder, on foot and by car out of flood-ripped Port Renfrew to his Victoria home Thursday.

Mr. Hughes, a partner in the firm of Butterfield and Hughes, left the west coast port around 11 a.m. Thursday, by the only remaining transportation—a railroad speeder that putted up the valley close to the raging San Juan river.

"There were ten of us huddled on this thing," he said. "We ran along fine until about 13 miles out of Port Renfrew. There, the banks above us had washed down on the tracks, so I got off and started off by foot through the woods."

The speeder went back to the port to pick up more "refugees" and operated on a regular shuttle service.

"I walked about two miles along the road in the rain before a truck came along and picked me up and took me in to the Bear Creek camp where I had left my car," he said.

The car trip to Shawnigan lake provided more thrills than a tank proving ground.

DODGED ROCKSLIDES
Mr. Hughes dodged rockslides, gingerly drove around washouts and through deep water. He crossed one bridge as the water lapped at the planks. A short time later, it washed away.

When he safely reached Mill bay at 3.30 p.m., he was informed he was the 60th car on the waiting list for the ferry.

At one time more than 100 cars were lined up for the only open way into Victoria.

Some delegates to a teachers' meeting in Victoria waited as long as 12 hours for the ferry which could carry only 13 to 15 vehicles a trip. Mr. Hughes had only a six-hour wait and arrived in Victoria at 11.30 p.m.

"It was quite a trip," he said. "Looking back on it, I wouldn't have missed it for the world. But, of course, I wouldn't want to do it over again too soon."

Council, Press To Tour Thetis For New Look

Members of the city council and the press will make a tour of Thetis Lake park at 1 p.m. Monday to take a second look at the proposed selective logging of parts of the area.

Opposition to logging has been mounting and one of the chief opponents is Mayor Claude Harrison, who says he will use his power to impose a 30-day veto.

Public works committee of the council yesterday proposed the second look.

Public Sees Induction Of New B.C. Teachers

Induction of teachers into the B.C. Teachers' Federation, normally a closed-door procedure, took place in public at the opening of the annual meeting of Greater Victoria teachers in Oak Bay Junior high school auditorium Thursday.

The 18-point code of ethics and the oath of allegiance were read by H. C. O'Donnel, principal of Toimie school and past-president of the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association, to the 43 teachers new to this area.

They are Miss B. M. Allcock, L. W. Anderson, A. D. Avery, P. A. Boldt, Mrs. P. G. Brawner, Mrs. J. Burch, Mrs. E. M. Butler, Mrs. Joyce Butler, Miss M. A. Cameron, Mrs. H. Cunniff, Miss H. B. Dewar, C. R. Douglas, Miss L. K. Field, Miss M. M. L. Findler, William J. Garner.

Mrs. G. M. Goodmanson, Mrs. V. J. Guest, Mrs. C. M. Gunderson, Miss S. J. Harrison, T. G. Hatcher, Mrs. S. Hele, C. D. Hoffman, Miss E. D. Jernslet, Miss M. E. Little, I. A. Lutzler, F. E. Riley, Miss T. M. Roberts, E. V. Stavrov, Mrs. B. S. Sutherland, G. W. B. Taylor, Miss P. A. Turner, Miss Marlene Vance, and Miss B. K. Walker.

A total of 580 Greater Victoria teachers are attending a three-day convention at Central Junior High School.

Sectional meetings—dealing with social studies, testing and evaluation, and mathematics, were some of the topics discussed yesterday.

A banquet at the high school, followed by a dance at the Crystal Garden, brought Friday's activities to a close.

Men Prepare AOTS Dinner For Church

Cooking and serving the annual turkey dinner and washing the dishes will be duties of the 35 members of the AOTS club in Esquimalt United church hall from 5.30 to 7.30 p.m. Tuesday.

Films will be shown and proceeds will go into club and church coffers. The public is invited, and Rev. Douglas Pilkey has asked that interested persons telephone him at 4-3031 or 3-4219 before Tuesday.

Some 300 persons are expected.

Convict Sues Movie Makers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Leonard D. Mahan Jr., a convict in San Quentin, sued Columbia Pictures Corp. for $750,000 damages and a share in the profits of the movie "The Night Holds No Terror."

Mahan, serving seven years to life for kidnapping and armed robbery, said the film was made without his consent and falsely depicted him as a killer.

LONDON—If anyone doubts the incidence of Britain's penal taxation this true story going the rounds of Harley street may be a useful confirmation.

A certain prominent City man, director of several companies and by normal standards a wealthy man, received an account from his doctor. It covered a prolonged illness of his wife, and a major operation. It was for the equivalent of $1,200.

The City man went to see the doctor, who was sympathetic. He suspected business was going too well.

"No, no, doctor," said the City man. "I have no complaint about the bill. For the treatment given it is most reasonable. It is just this, doctor. Do you realize that in order to pay you $1,200 I have to earn $24,000?"

The doctor indicated that he had not thought of it like that. "Well," said the City man, "assume I pay you $1,200. How much will that give you to spend after paying tax?"

$24,000 Pays $60 Account

The specialist thought a moment. "Sixty dollars," he said. "Well," said the City man, "don't you agree it's fantastic that I should have to earn $24,000 in order to give you $60 to spend?"

It is hardly worth the effort to try to earn more than $7,000 a year in Britain. After that, taxation takes 95 per cent.

The deal was accepted. The doctor received the equivalent of $200 and the City man had to earn only $4,000.

Oakalla Warden Says: Cost of Life Term $25,000

Average cost of maintaining a prisoner for his lifetime is $25,000, Oakalla prison warden Hugh Christie said at opening session of the Greater Victoria teachers' convention in Oak Bay Junior High school auditorium Thursday.

This, he said, represents "a $25,000,000 potential indebtedness to British Columbia" for the 1,000 prisoners in Oakalla at any one time.

Oakalla prison admits between 5,000 and 6,000 persons a year, and cost of maintenance is an average of $4 a day for each one of these. Cost for each fibre in a pound of cotton.

You can't miss with PV Hardboards

Building with PV Hardboards is like driving on a new super-highway—it's easier and quicker!

Take ceilings for example. No need to struggle with big, unwieldy panels. PV Square-Tex in 4' x 4' panels is light enough for easy overhead handling, big enough to cover 16 square feet at a time. Panels are grooved to form 12 or 16" squares; all panels meet on the groove, concealing the joints. A man-and-wife team can ceiling an average room in two or three hours.

Walls with that professional look are easy with PV Plank Board. The deep, vertical grooves form a handsome wall pattern. Panel edges merge together unnoticed.

For the special featured section—a cupboard front... a room divider... use PV Aero Board, with its smart perforations.

Economical, tough, easily worked and finished, PV Hardboards are the best friend a handyman has!

Valley's Fate Hung in Balance As Floods Bulged Reservoir

Health Menace Suspected

NANAIMO—Dr. E. W. R. Best, director, Central Vancouver Island Health Unit, stated yesterday that steps were being taken to check wells in flooded areas here.

Dr. Best warned that well water in flooded areas should be boiled for drinking purposes, and that all contaminated wells should be sterilized according to directions available at the health unit.

NANAIMO—Harewood reservoir behind Nanaimo bulged six inches under the by the heavy rains but held firm yesterday.

The water level dropped about five inches overnight Thursday and fears of the dam breaking and flooding the Chase river valley, near here, and portions of the Harewood district were relieved.

Plans had been made Thursday night to evacuate some families.

Nearly six inches of rain fell here in the 48 hours ending at 4:30 p.m. yesterday.

More than 1,000 men were affected when flood waters, washouts and heavy rains caused the shutdown of MacMillan & Bloedel's Nanaimo river camp and Comox Logging Co. camp at Nanaimo lakes. The men expect to be out till Monday.

Nanaimo itself escaped prac-reservoir behind Nanaimo weight of water backed up tically unscathed. Apart from flooded basements in some parts of the city, little or no damage was done.

The Cedar district was hardest hit. Two auto courts near the Nanaimo river were evacuated. The proprietor of the Riverside Auto Court estimated damage to his property at close to $4,000.

HOMES FLOODED

Twelve homes in the area along the Nanaimo river at Cedar were flooded. Residents started going back yesterday afternoon to begin mopping up. Few if any expected to move back in their homes last night.

More than 70 per cent of the forest fires occurring in the Rocky Mountain region are started by lightning.

School Board Steers Clear Of 'Politics'

CAMPBELL RIVER—Bid of Campbell River Ratepayers' Association to switch the present method of electing school trustees here to a straight election, was rejected at the annual school board meeting this week.

At present, representatives are selected in the school district and they subsequently elect the trustees from their own numbers.

The meeting was told the school district would have to bear the cost of an election if the method was changed. It was suggested also that a switch would mean the entry of "politics" into the selection of school trustees.

PORT ALBERNI—Canadian Legion branches in Port Alberni and Alberni will again hold joint Remembrance services with the ceremonies this year being held in Port Alberni.

Council has granted permission for a parade through city streets and for Argyle street in front of the cenotaph to be blocked off during the service.

PORT ALBERNI—This city's new anti-noise by-law which went into effect Nov. 1 is not intended to eliminate the sounds of industry. Mayor Loren Jordan explained this week.

The mayor made the comment when a letter from E. G. Stroyan of MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd. requested permission for construction of the pulp mill site to continue between the hours of 8 p.m. and 8 a.m.

The letter explained that it is necessary to have the extra hours of work in order to meet scheduled arrival of equipment for the new pulp and paper plant.

A battery of pile-drivers is engaged on a three-shift basis in preliminary work on the multi-million dollar project.

Council has granted permission for the continuation of the work in night-hours.

PARKSVILLE—Some $40 was cleared in a successful plant sale at the regular monthly meeting of Parksville District Garden Club. The sale was conducted by C. W. R. Atwood and W. G. Wheeler, and proceeds will go to a fund to pay for a projector purchased by the club.

Winners of the monthly competition were: Mr. Atwood, Mrs. P. Beucheluck, Mrs. S. Sibbald, Mrs. Frank Braybrook, T. M. Wilson and Tom Robinson.

Annual Christmas party of the garden club will be held Dec. 21 at the parish hall.

Cook Seeks Election

NANAIMO—John K. Cook of Nanaimo is the sixth candidate to announce his intention of entering the aldermanic race in Nanaimo's civic elections Dec. 8.

Mr. Cook is a retired Nanaimo businessman. He was defeated at the civic polls last year.

PARKSVILLE—Harry Gough of French Creek won the French Creek Fishing Camp trophy for the largest coho salmon entered in the derby this season with a fish weighing 12 pounds 34 ounces. The cup is to be awarded annually at the end of the derby which closed this year on Oct. 31. Awards were also made for the top fish weighed in each month of the coho season.

The largest coho caught near French Creek weighed 19 pounds but was not a derby entry.

QUALICUM BEACH—Funeral services will be held here at 2 p.m. today for Mrs. Helen Grace Welch, who died in Vancouver Wednesday. She was the wife of H. J. Welch, former MLA for Comox and well-known Vancouver Island lumberman.

Born in Illoquiam, Wash., Mrs. Welch came to B.C. 47 years ago.

Surviving are her husband; one daughter, Mrs. Douglas Findlay of Qualicum Beach; two sons, Dr. H. C. Welch, Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., and Bruce, Qualicum Beach; two sisters, Mrs. Samuel Yolden of Victoria and Mrs. E. Waller of Aberdeen, Wash.; one brother, W. F. Clark of Portland, and seven grandchildren.

Cpl. P. G. (Pat) Thomas, 30, of Courtenay, has arrived at Langar air force base in England for a tour of duty with the RCAF's 30 Air Material group.

Cpl. Thomas, born in Cornwall, England, and educated in Courtenay, first joined the air force in 1943 as a munitions and weapons technician. In 1945 he left the RCAF and for five years was employed by a logging firm at Courtenay before rejoining the service at Victoria.

His mother, Mrs. G. Thomas, lives at Courtenay.

PORT ALBERNI—An organizational meeting of a Friends of the Library Club will be sponsored here by the Business and Professional Women's Club of the Alberni with a view to providing improved library facilities in Port Alberni.

The meeting, to be held Nov. 22 at 8 p.m. in Port Alberni council chambers, will be attended by Miss Margaret Clay, Victoria, and Robert Davidson, chairman of the Vancouver Island Regional Library Commission.

PORT ALBERNI—Fact that sawdust is being replaced by oil as a domestic fuel in Port Alberni was indicated when Ald. J. R. Dalton, chairman of the fire, water and light committee, gave a report to city council this week.

Heavy Damage Reckoning Follows Rampaging River

CHEMAMOUS—Residents of this children were taken to safety in a boat by Mrs. Sweeney.

The house and barn on the Bon-sall farm were marooned by the raging Bon-sall creek. From Bon-sall, a ham radio fan summoned assistance from friends in Duncan with his radio. His friends threw a rope to him which he tied to a tree. The flood waters in a boat, provided by his friends. Half-way across, the boat sank, but Mr. Bon-sall was saved by the rope.

Several Indian homes were flooded on the Westholme reservation. Bridges on the side-road to the Chemamus river reservation were washed out.

J. Locke had difficulty rescuing some half-dozen cattle from Swallowfield farm. Crossing in a boat, aggravated by melting snow on the mountains.

Flood waters inundated the Island highway and a section of the old Island highway.

Forty head of cattle had to be taken to higher ground from the Carl Quist farm, the Swallowfield farm and the Hicks farm.

Westholme reserve and the Crofton road corner on the 3rd Island highway at Bon-sall creek were all under water. The RCMP, aided by MacMillan & Bloedel trucks, evacuated 15 persons from this section between 5 and 7 p.m. Thursday.

Jaycees Back Up Indians

NANAIMO—Proposal to lease Indian lands to white farmers was called "racial discrimination" yesterday by Frank Ney, chairman of the Immigration committee of the Nanaimo Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber will draw up a resolution to support the Indians in their campaign against the proposal to lease their lands. Mr. Ney stated his committee was fully in agreement with the Indians.

Jaycees Want Parking Lot

NANAIMO—Nanaimo Junior Chamber of Commerce will launch a campaign soon to establish a parking lot for 200 cars behind the Malaspina hotel in Nanaimo.

The junior chamber plans to seek aid from Ottawa to link up an esplanade from the nearby federal building to a wholesale supply firm just beyond the hotel.

Working To Keep Wheels Turning

Soviets Rebuff Unity Proposal

GENEVA (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov rebuffed Friday night a new Western proposal to begin reunification of Germany by nationwide elections next September. He will fly to Moscow today—possibly to receive new instructions.

The 65-year-old diplomat's disclosure he will make a trip to the Soviet capital during a three-day recess of the Geneva conference stirred immediate speculation he may come back with revised ideas on the deadlocked German problem.

He turned down the West's newest German unification plan at Friday's Big Four session mainly on the ground it made no provision for European security. He promised he would "naturally study it carefully" and comment on it again next Tuesday.

Western diplomatic sources said, however, that Molotov has appeared to be under rigid orders from Moscow, which allowed him no room for manoeuvre in rejecting German unification. With 70,000,000 divided Germans certain to blame bitterly the cold war side which denies their national aspirations, Molotov has been on a tough spot at Geneva.

Molotov repeated Friday his demand that the Communist East German government and the West German government be called in to discuss the reunification problem with the Big Four foreign ministers.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UP)—William (Willie) Bioff, 54, former labor racketeer, was killed yesterday when a gangland bomb exploded in a pickup truck and scattered parts of his body throughout the front yard of his home.

Mountain Combed For Hunter

ALBANY—More than 20 searchers yesterday combed the side of a mountain in the Beaufort range in an all-day search for Paul Christiansen, who disappeared early in the day in one of the district's worst rainstorms of recent years.

The search was directed by RCMP with volunteers coming forward to offer their help.

While the main search party returned to town at dark, Chris Holcombe, who has hunted the area frequently, was setting out with a companion to carry on the hunt by night.

Christiansen started up the mountain early yesterday morning on a deer hunt, accompanied by Paul Derrish. The two became separated during the day.

Working from early yesterday morning, as soon as Arbutus creek's flood was diverted back to a culvert below road level, public works crews raced to repair major break in Malahat highway. By 8 p.m. last night single-lane traffic was possible. But workmen stood guard in case of further wash-outs.

Herculean Efforts

Island Arteries Back in Business As Damage Mounts

Vancouver Island traffic approached normal yesterday as repair crews worked around the clock to restore highways, rail lines and power facilities washed out during the torrential rainstorms Wednesday and Thursday.

A 75-foot-long swath in the Malahat highway at Arbutus creek which washed down the embankment Thursday was filled temporarily and single-lane traffic, guided by flares, started to move over the section at 7:30 last night.

E & N passenger service will resume today with a return trip as far as Duncan and possibly right through to Courtenay.

Weatherman Forecasts Good Tidings

More rain—but only light sprinkles—is forecast for today as the week's third, and by far the weakest, storm crosses Vancouver Island.

Accompanied by light winds, the storm will scatter showers over the area through Sunday.

The weatherman says there is little chance of further flood rains.

Murderer Caught After Mass Escape

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP)—Seven of 10 tough inmates who tunneled out Thursday night in the largest mass escape in history of the troubled Washington State Penitentiary were recaptured Friday.

The State Patrol at Spokane said three of the inmates, including William B. Bracey, 20, who shot his mother to death two years ago, were apprehended at nearby Milton-Freewater, Ore.

Four others were taken earlier, Don W. Munn, 24, serving 20 years for robbery, and Arthur Lee Walker, 28, doing 15 years for grand larceny, were caught with Bracey. There were no immediate details on their arrest.

The other four were captured after 17 hours of freedom.

An alert farmer living in the sparsely-settled wheat-growing country 20 miles north of here found tracks showing him the four apparently spent the night in one of his outbuildings. His barking dogs had awakened him during the night.

Courtenay, First train from Victoria, the Dayliner, is scheduled to leave here at 11:30 a.m. today.

A CNR work train is repairing washouts on its freight line to Youbou. First freight since the flooding is expected to leave here Monday.

B.C. Electric officials said last night that there would be no need for a power cutback to more than 45,000 subscribers while a 750-foot section of flume, washed out by the flood, is repaired at Jordan river.

Meanwhile hundreds of residents in hard-hit Island points are shovelling mud and silt from their homes and drying out possessions after the record-breaking rainstorm which caused them and utility companies close to $3,000,000 damage.

Crews from the highways department's Langford station worked around the clock to fill the gap to make a temporary roadway to carry traffic until permanent repairs are made.

Workers installing flares on the narrow shoulders of the new road and a watch is being maintained to see that the fill doesn't wash away.

Jordan River hydro plant, key power installation of the B.C. Electric chain serving Greater Victoria, will operate at about 20 per cent of normal capacity for another two weeks.

The Brentwood steam plant and the Goldstream hydro plant are both running at full capacity. B.C. officials say, and they are purchasing a substantial block of power from the B.C. Power Commission during the repair period.

Convict Printer Forges Bright Future—in Vain

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (UP)—Washington state penitentiary guards yesterday probably interrupted a young man's plans for a bright future when they recaptured Gene Kensler who had escaped through a tunnel under the prison wall.

Under the bridge from which Kensler and his friend's were flushed sheriff's deputies found more than $10,000 in bogus state checks, identification cards to help cash them, and a glowing letter of recommendation for employment. All of the literature had been manufactured in the prison print shop where Kensler was employed as a compositor.

The letter of recommendation expressed "profound regret" at the resignation, effective Oct. 31, of compositor "Sean Carmody" from the state department of printing.

The letter described Carmody as "trustworthy, dependable, ambitious and a hard worker." His former "employers" said he was "an excellent family man, built his own modest home, was prompt in his financial obligations and landscaped one of the nicest floral gardens in the neighborhood."

Bandits Grab $7,500

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two masked men escaped with $7,500 after firing a warning shot during a holdup of a suburban branch of the Royal Bank of Canada here Friday.

The bullet lodged in a counter.

The men menaced about a dozen customers and teller Margaret Kubesh with three guns before firing the shot.

They scooped up all the money in Miss Kubesh's cage and made their getaway in a late-model car.

J. N. Cornborough, bank manager, said that in a similar robbery at the bank a year and a half ago, $5,000 was taken.

A bank customer, Ed Burgess, was entering the bank as the gunmen made their getaway. He took the licence number of the car before it sped away.

Witnesses said the men were armed with a .38-calibre revolver, a .22-calibre rifle and a sawed-off shotgun.

Police found the getaway car abandoned 11 blocks north of the bank. Masks and a gun were found a block away between two homes.

The men were described as about 20, both five feet nine inches, with long hair.

Vancouver's last bank robbery occurred Oct. 26, when two masked men escaped with more than $10,000 from a suburban branch of the Bank of Commerce.

OTTAWA (CP)—More than $100,000,000 worth of contracts have been let so far for the mid-Canada radar line, Defence Minister Campney said Friday night. Total cost of the chain along the 55th parallel is estimated at some $170,000,000.

Mr. Campney said the big construction project, despite hazards and difficulties, is on schedule. Target date for its completion is secret but the best guess is 1957.

"There is no reason to believe that the line will not be finished on time though, of course, in a project of this type and magnitude, new problems and new construction difficulties may introduce themselves any time," he added.

The line is scheduled for completion at about the same time the DEW (distant early warning) radar line in the Canadian Arctic is finished. Canada is building the mid-Canada chain and the United States the DEW line.

He said officials of the defence and health departments now are discussing the possibility of building several hospitals along the Hudson bay region of the mid-Canada line.

Four Jump Oakalla Wall

Police Stalk Desperadoes Through Burnaby Swamp

Two Still Loose; Armed, Dangerous

VANCOUVER (BUP)—A posse of more than 100 heavily-armed policemen swarmed through 500 acres of forested swampland and a cemetery in suburban Burnaby last night in a search for two gun-toting prison fugitives.

The pair—bank robbers John Wasylenchuk and Robert Lewis—fled with two other men from Oakalla prison farm at about 2 p.m. The other fugitives, Carl LaVictoire and Harold Coulter, were recaptured less than half an hour after the break.

The four men were seeing their lawyers and were late for the exercise period," Christie said. "After having seen their lawyers, they were admitted to the exercise yard one by one."

"The four convicts then charged the exercise ground fence where a new officer was on duty," Christie said. "The men shouted to the officer to drop his rifle, which he did, and one of the men picked it up."

"The four then proceeded to the prison gate, rammed the rifle in gatekeeper Orval Richardson's stomach, shouting 'Open the gate.'"

"Richardson did not open the gate but dashed into the office with the rifle still aimed at his stomach."

"Give me your revolver," one of the men said, Richardson replied, "I haven't got a revolver."

"One of the convicts repeated his demand for a revolver, and Richardson again replied, 'I don't have one.'"

Deputy Warden M. H. Adams said the men escaped by "jumping over the fence."

Police said they believed that Wasylenchuk was the "brains" behind the escape plot.

Wasylenchuk, a 31-year-old desperado who has been in and out of prison all his life, had his appeal against his life sentence and 21 lashes turned down last week by the British Columbia Court of Appeal. He would have been transferred to the penitentiary in a few more days.

Involved in the hunt were Royal Canadian Mounted Police, prison guards and Vancouver and New Westminster city police. One inspector of the Vancouver city police said the police were armed with "all riot gear," including tear gas and sub-machine guns.

Warden Christie, who fired the only shot exchanged in the search for a warning move, said Wasylenchuk and Lewis somehow equipped themselves with pistols, but it was not known where they got them.

The other car was driven by Gerald R. Irvine, 3245 Quadra.

City Motorist Hurt in Crash

Wilfred John Jasper, 27, 3002 Cook, was in "relatively good" condition in the Royal Jubilee Hospital last night with concussion, cuts and a broken nose after a head-on automobile collision at Cook and Queen's.

The other car was driven by Gerald R. Irvine, 3245 Quadra.

Radar Contracts Hit $100-Million

OTTAWA (CP)—More than $100,000,000 worth of contracts have been let so far for the mid-Canada radar line, Defence Minister Campney said Friday night.

Total cost of the chain along the 55th parallel is estimated at some $170,000,000.

He said officials of the defence and health departments now are discussing the possibility of building several hospitals along the Hudson bay region of the mid-Canada line.

OTTAWA (CP)—Premier Duplessis said Friday in a tersely-worded warning to price-boosting newspaper manufacturers that state controls are "debatable" but "necessary under certain circumstances."

Most of the cards which had been printed in the prison shop identified "Charles Sherman," to whom most of the checks were payable. The identification included a driver's licence, draft card, birth registration (complete with state seal), and cards from two credit associations.

Deputy sheriffs agreed that the driver's licence "sure looks authentic" and probably would have fooled them.

'Flea Power'

CBC Rule Bans TV Outlet Here

BY ROY PARRETT

A Victoria television station has been smothered before birth by a new ruling of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation which, in effect, limits any local TV outlet to flea-power operation.

The regulation followed the filing of an application for a television licence for Victoria by an operating radio station here. The application was returned on the grounds that it did not meet the CBC's limitations for single-service coverage.

Present plans of Victoria broadcasters call for TV transmitters operating at normal power which would include Vancouver and the built-up part of the mainland in service areas.

The new regulation would limit the coverage of any Victoria television station strictly to the local area—from Sidney to the Malahat. Because of this, a Victoria TV station would have power of about 2,000 watts, instead of the usual 100,000.

U.S. Charge

Bloodbath Guilt Laid to Russians

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States yesterday charged Russia and her Communist satellites with chief responsibility for the bloodiest Egyptian-Israeli fighting to rock the Middle East in seven years.

The state department said the present situation in the Holy Land is far different from conditions which prevailed before the Reds offered modern arms to the Egyptians. The fighting hit new peaks only after the arms offer.

Department spokesman Lincoln White was asked at a news conference to comment specifically on an earlier United Press dispatch which said American officials blamed Russia for the new outbreak of fighting and any Middle Eastern war it might spawn.

"I think the chronology of events there shows a close relationship between the present situation and what it was before this offer was made," he replied.

White disclosed the United States has received information that Communist technicians have arrived in Egypt in connection with the arms deliveries. He said it also is known that Communist weapons were delivered to Egypt recently in several ships.

The Reds are reported delivering MIG-15 jet fighters, IL-28 medium jet bombers and other modern weapons to Egypt, possibly including submarines. Some of the weapons are believed coming from Communist Czechoslovakia.

A strike by operating engineers of Vancouver Island and coast lumber and shingle mills appeared certain to begin at 8 a.m. tomorrow when a meeting yesterday between union officials and mill operators failed to produce a compromise settlement.

The meeting was held in the hopes of breaking the deadlock between the union and operators of 16 mills which would be affected by strike action.

Duplessis Gives Warning

OTTAWA (CP)—Premier Duplessis said Friday in a tersely-worded warning to price-boosting newspaper manufacturers that state controls are "debatable" but "necessary under certain circumstances."

Most of the cards which had been printed in the prison shop identified "Charles Sherman," to whom most of the checks were payable. The identification included a driver's licence, draft card, birth registration (complete with state seal), and cards from two credit associations.

Deputy sheriffs agreed that the driver's licence "sure looks authentic" and probably would have fooled them.

Bright Future—in Vain

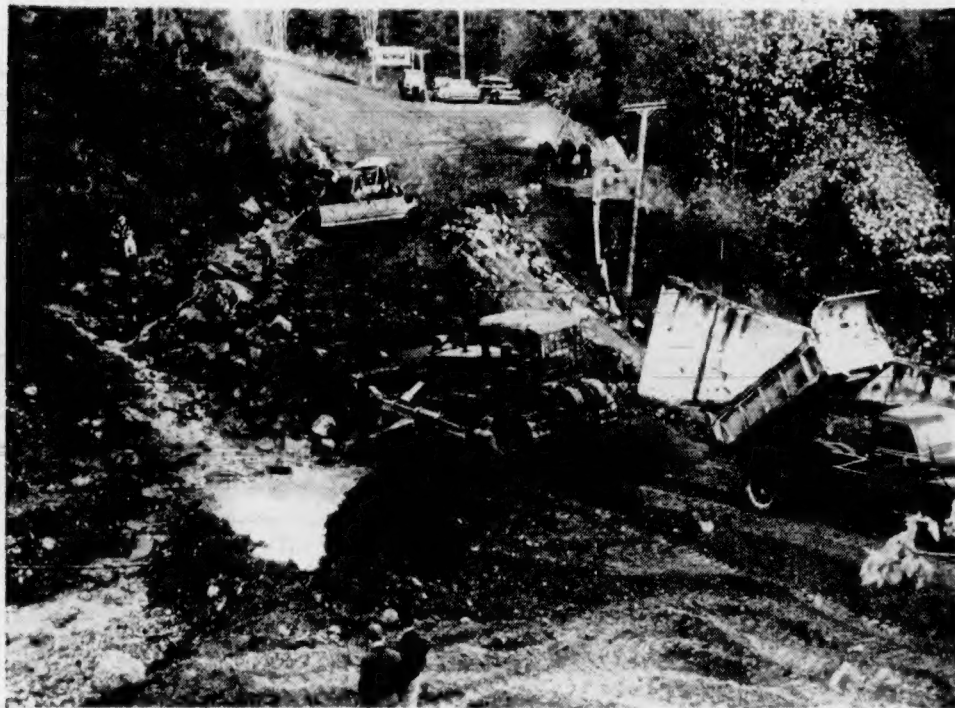

Kensler is serving a 15-year term for grand larceny. He escaped from the prison once before, in 1952, and travelled a trail of bad checks all the way across the United States. He still is wanted on bad check charges in several states.

The checks, which added up to $10,151.77, were signed by "D. W. Halvorson, superintendent of the state department of printing." Washington has no department of printing, but there is a Dave Halvorson employed by the state department of institutions. Halvorson's job is to keep the personnel records for penitentiary employees and inmates, so the bogus checks carried a name the convicts knew.

RIOT-ARMED POLICE HUNT JAIL FUGITIVES

Working To Keep Wheels Turning

Working from early yesterday morning, as soon as Arbutus creek's flood was diverted back to a culvert below road level, public works crews raced to repair major break in Malahat highway. By 8 p.m. last night single-lane traffic was possible. But workmen stood guard in case of further wash-outs.

Island Arteries Back in Business As Damage Mounts

Vancouver Island traffic approached normal yesterday as repair crews worked around the clock to restore highways, rail lines and power facilities washed out during the torrential rainstorms Wednesday and Thursday.

City Motorist Hurt in Crash

Wilfred John Jasper, 27, 2002 Cook, was in "relatively good" condition in the Royal Jubilee Hospital last night with concussion, cuts and a broken nose after a head-on automobile collision at Cook and Queen's.

The other car was driven by Gerald R. Irvine, 3245 Quadra.

Soviets Rebuff Unity Proposal

GENEVA (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov rebuffed Friday night a new Western proposal to begin reunification of Germany by nationwide elections next September. He will fly to Moscow today—possibly to receive new instructions.

The 63-year-old diplomat's disclosure he will make a trip to the Soviet capital during a three-day recess of the Geneva conference stirred immediate speculation he may come back with revised ideas on the deadlocked German problem.

He turned down the West's newest German unification plan at Friday's Big Four session mainly on the ground it made no provision for European security. He promised he would "naturally study it carefully" and comment on it again next Tuesday.

Western diplomatic sources said, however, that Molotov has appeared to be under rigid orders from Moscow, which allowed him no room for manoeuvre in rejecting German unification. With 70,000,000 divided Germans certain to blame bitterly the cold war side which denies their national aspirations, Molotov has been on a tough spot at Geneva.

Molotov repeated Friday his demand that the Communist East German government and the West German government be called in to discuss the reunification problem with the Big Four foreign ministers.

Gang Bomb Blasts Bioff into Eternity

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UP)—William (Willie) Bioff, 54, former labor racketeer, was killed yesterday when a gangland bomb exploded in a pickup truck and scattered parts of his body throughout the front yard of his home.

The former convict, found guilty in 1941 of a $1,000,000 extortion plot on the movie industry, stepped on the starter of his truck and triggered the fatal blast in front of his garage.

His wife, Laurie, said she had just waved goodbye to Bioff and turned away from the front door when the thunderous explosion rent the air.

Bioff's body was hurled from the cab of the truck and his right arm and leg were blasted off. Tiny pieces of his body were scattered throughout the yard of his $40,000 home. Police patrolled the front yard, putting the tiny charred pieces of flesh into a cardboard box.

Watches were set for the funeral.
